NO CAMPAIGN TRIP IS CONTEMPLATED BY THE PRESIDENT

Will Make Several Speeches on Public Questions Before Non-Partisan Bodies.

CONFERS WITH M'CORMICK

Will Avoid Personalities in His Addresses and Discuss Pressing Public Questions.

Long Branch, N. J., Sept. 19. — President Wilson announced tonight that he has no intention of making any campaign tour, but that he will carry out plans already tentatively made for several speeches on public questions before non-partisan organizations. This announcement followed a conference between Mr. Wilson and Vance McCormick, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Both the President and Mr. McCormick expressed indignation over stories printed today to the effect that as a result of uneasiness over the Republican campaign Mr. Wilson had changed his plans and would stump the country. Secretary Tumulty authorized the following statement:

Programme Unchanged.

The President has no intention of making any campaign tour. He does not intend to change the programme already agreed upon by those in charge of his campaign to accept invitations from non-partisan organizations to discuss political questions."

In addition to the speeches in different parts of the country, the President plans to make addresses on the porch of Shadow Lawn to delegations from various states who will call upon him. The first of these speeches will be made Saturday afternoon to a delegation of business men, with whom Mr. Wilson will discuss the record of business legislation made by his administration.

Many Invitations.

Chairman McCormick arrived here late today with a portfolio filled with letters from Democratic leaders, and invitations from political and non-political organizations. He urged that as many as possible be accepted.

With Chairman McCormick the President planned the general trend of his addresses. In them, he will avoid personalities and confine himself strictly to pressing public questions. Among other things, he will discuss the settlement of the recently threatened railroad strike, which Charles E. Hughes has made an issue in the campaign.

The President displayed his intention of taking an active personal interest in his campaign. From now on, administration officials said the Democrats will push the campaign as vigorously as possible. Plans are already being made for sending several cabinet members into the Middle West and all doubtful states, to recite the record of the President and the Democratic Congress.

The President met Mr. McCormick at the railroad station here, within a short time after Mr. and Mrs. Wilson returned from Columbia, S. C., where they attended the funeral of the President's sister. Mr. McCormick remained at Shadow Lawn over night. Early returns from the New York state primaries were telephoned to Shadow Lawn tonight.

Speaks at Baltimore Monday.

Preparation of the speech the President will deliver next Monday at Baltimore before the convention of the National Grain Dealers' Association has begun. In it Mr. Wilson will refer particularly to the rural credits bill passed by Congress.

In addition to discussing politics with Mr. McCormick, the President today gave time to selecting members of the Tariff Commission, the Shipping board, the board created by the eight-hour law for railroad employees, and the board to carry out the provisions of the working men's compensation law. He is expected to name some of them within a few days.

PROGRESSIVE VOTE LIGHT IN NEW YORK

An Average of Only Four Votes to a District Were Cast For Whitman or Seabury

WHITMAN WAS IN THE LEAD

Returns at Midnight Gave the Republican Candidate 3,924 Votes Against 2,769 for the Democratic Candidate.

New York, Sept. 19.—With returns from less than one third of the districts in the state received at midnight Governor Charles S. Whitman was leading Judge Samuel Seabury, Democrat for the Progressive endorsement fo governor. Only a fraction of the 46,000 enrolled Progressives in the state voted, an average of 4 to a district.

Returns from 1,521 districts out of 5,719 gave Governor Whitman 3,924 votes as against 2,769 for Judge Seabury.

The Progressive vote aroused more interest among state and national leaders than any other feature of the primary, for it was regarded as giving some light on how the strength of the party would be divided in the national election. A majority of the Progressive leaders of the state supported Mr. Whitman's candidacy. Leaders of the so-called insurgent wing, who gave their aid to Judge Seabury, professed to be more than satisfied with the result. In 61 upstate districts heard from at midnight Seabury let Whitman but by less than 100 votes.

The contest between former Congressman William M. Calder and Robert Bacon, former ambassador to France, for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate, was the most closely contested in either the Republican or Democratic primary. With returns complete from 2,885 districts out of 5,159 in the state, Bacon had received 70,415 votes and Calder 67,251.

William F. McCombs, former chairman of the Democratic National committee, who was designated for the senatorial nomination by unofficial Democratic state convention, was leading his opponent, Thomas F. Conway, a former lieutenant governor, by more than 2 to 1 at midnight.

State Senator William M. Bennett, who opposed Governor Whitman for the Republican nomination, had received only 15,671 votes compared with 87,696 for Whitman.

TO AGAIN APPEAL TO LABOR LEADERS

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS WASHINGTON, D. C.

This Apparently Only Hope of Averting Sympathetic Strike of 700,000 Workers.

SHONTS WILL NOT GIVE IN

Refuses Plan of Citizens' Committee, Saying That He Can Not Meet Representatives of the Striking Car Men.

New York, Sept. 19.—After a citizens' committee had failed to effect a basi sof settlement between the striking union carmen and their employees here today, it was announced tonight that apparentl ythe only hope of averting a threatened sympathetic walkout of 700,000 workers, set for Friday, now lies in a final appeal to be made to the labor leaders Thursday. The citizens' committee probably will confer tomorrow with Mayor Mitchel and Oscar S. Straus, chairman of the public service commission, in an effort to find some solution of the problem.

After a conference today with the mayor and Mr. Straus, the committee visited Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the New York Railways Company, and it was said, proposed to him a plan evolved for the peaceable adjustment of the present difficulties. Mr. Shonts, it was learned tonight, informed the committee that he would refuse positively to meet representatives of the strikers. He said that even if he were disposed to treat with the strikers he could not do so because the 11,000 loyal employees of his company, which made the possible continuation of the traffic of the subways and elevated railroads had threatened to strike if the Interborough recognized the strikers' union.

MOST SERIOUS RIOTING SINCE STRIKE COMMENCED

New York, Sept. 19.—The most serious rioting since the transit strike in this city began two weeks ago occurred tonight in various sections of Manhattan, when attempts were made to run cars on the 42nd and 59th street cross-town surface lines. Mobs of strikers and their sympathizers stormed two car barns, over-powering the police and putting to flight all railway employees in the vicinity. Several motormen and conductors who had not joined the strike were beaten.

Much property damage had been done before police reserves arrived.

Chicago, September 19. — An embargo on the exportation of wheat until the supply shall exceed the home consumption is asked in a resolution addressed to President Wilson, which was adopted at a meeting of the Chicago Women's Association of Commerce at a meeting today.

SOURCE OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS NOT KNOWN

Rat Flea Theory is Abandoned by Officials in New York.

New York, Sept. 19.—Efforts of Federal and city health authorities to determine the source of infantile paralysis have been unsuccessful thus far, it was disclosed tonight in an announcement by United States Public Health Service officials of the abandonment of the latest theory that the rat flea transmitted the disease.

Another attempt to trace the disease to dogs and cats taken from houses where there has been patients also proved futile. Tests were made in the city laboratories on six such animals, but while they were found to have paralysis it was asserted positively that uone had the same disease from which the children suffered.

DAM IN BOHEMIAN PROVINCE BURSTS

Many Lives Have Been Lost and Enormous Damage Done in the Valley of Weisendesse.

VILLAGES ARE INUNDATED

Trees, Houses, Parts of Bridges and Corpses Swept Away—Dam, Which Was Near German Frontier, Practically New.

London, Sept. 19.—Many lives have been lost and enormous damage has been caused near Galbonz, Bohemia, by the bursting of a dam in the valley of Weissendesse, according to a dispatch to Reuters from Amsterdam, quoting a telegram received here from Galbonz.

The dam was eight metres in length an dtwenty in depth. The onrushing waters carried away numerous glass polishing factories and it is feared there were many victims. The bridges were not destroyed, but are in danger of collapse. The damage is very great.

The villages of Deszendorf, Tiefenbach Tannwald, Schamburg, Schwarow, Gross Hammer and Haratz are inundated.

Ten bodies of victims have been recovered and identified.

BANK OF WATER 12 FEET HIGH RUSHES DOWN VALLEY

Berlin, Sept. 19 (via Sayville).—The dam which gave way was in the mountains of Bohemia, near the German frontier. Water to the depth of two metres (six feet) swept through the neighboring villages, carrying away trees, wooden houses, parts of bridges and corpses. The number of the dead has not been ascertained. The dam was 52 metres wide at the base and 13 metres high. The basin had a capacity of 400,000 cubic metres of water and was connected with another basin holding 7,000,000 cubic metres.

The dam, which was situated above Tannwald, was completed only a year ago. As the great mass of water was released it rushed in a 12-foot high wave down the Weisendesse valley, carrying thousands of feet of lumber on its crest and hurling it with great violence against buildings and bridges in the villages in the center of the Bohemian glass industry, destroying them as if they were matchwood.

Ninety minutes after the break the flood had reached Tannwald and mounted to six feet above the bounds, tearing through the town and carrying away houses and virtually everything in its path. Shortly afterward similar scenes were repeated in the villages below Tannwald, where the waters destroyed glass cutting works, mills and houses and then carried them down stream.

Thus far only ten bodies have been recovered. That the loss of life was not greater was due partly to the hour of the catastrophe which was late in the afternoon when most of the houses were empty, and also to warnings that were telephoned down the valley ahead of the flood.

SERBIANS ARE REPORTED TO BE CONTINUING THEIR ADVANCE

London, Sept. 19.—A dispatch to the Excange Telegraph from Saloniki, dated Monday, says:

TEUTONS TAKE OFFENSIVE AGAINST RUSSIAN FORCES ALONG THE STOKHOD RIVER

Berlin Reports Capture of Thirty-One Officers and 2,511 Men in This Region, While in Galicia an Additional 4,200 Were Taken—Rumanians Driven Back in Transylvania and Dobrudja—Pause in the Fighting in the Somme Region.

Although there is a pause in the violent fighting in the Somme region of France, due to the inclement weather, heavy battles are in progress on the eastern front in Russia, Galicia, Transylvania and Rumania and on the southern front in Macedonia.

Along the Stokhod river, in Russia, the Germans and Austro-Hungarians have taken the offensive against the Russians, and according to Berlin, near Zarecze have crossed the river in pursuit of their retreating foe and have captured 31 officers and 2,511 men and 17 machine guns. Here four lines of Russian trenches were penetrated by the Teutonic allies, says Vienna.

In Galicia, a counter attack by the forces of the Central Powers along the Narayuvka river, southeast of Lemberg, brought a further success to the arms and resulted in the capture of an additional 4,200 men.

In the Ludowa region of the Carpathians the Russians have gained some new positions in the fighting among the snow-clad peaks.

Rumanians Driven Back.

The war chancelleries at Berlin, Sofia and Vienna record victories for the Teutonic allies over the Rumanians in Transylvania and Dobruja. In southern Tansylvania, near Hatszeg, according to Berlin, the invading Rumanians have been repulsed and are being persued by the Austro-Germans, while in Dobrudja the new line formed by the Russians south of the Constanza railway and running from the Black Sea to the Danube has been penetrated at some points and several villages captured.

Hard Fighting in Macedonia.

In Macedonia hard fighting continues at various points but with no important changes in positions reported. Two counter attacks by the Bulgarians against the Serbians on the left wing were unsuccessful, according to Paris, while Sofia reports that attacks by Russian, French and Serbian troops on Bulgarian positions around Florina were repulsed, as likewise was an offensive west of LaKe Ostrovo. Artillery engagements for the most part are going on along both the British and French sectors of the front.

Violent Artillery Action.

In France and Belgium there have been violent artillery on the Somme and Verdun fronts and around Dixmude. A local German attack on British trenches east of Martinpuich, north of the Somme, was repulsed. Berlin admits the relinquishment to the entente forces of trenches east of Ginchy and near Combles, which had been previously demolished by the enemy artillery.

To Evacuate Trieste.

The infantry fighting between the Italians and Austrians on the Carso heights has noticeably diminished, although the artillery on both sides continues active. A report attributed to reliable diplomatic sources in Athens, is to the effect that the Austrians are preparing to evacuate Trieste.

COALITION GOVERNMENT FOR GERMANY URGED IN EDITORIAL

Amsterdam, via London, Sept. 20.—A coalition government for Germany is urged by the Berlin Tageblatt in a long leader by Hans Sixkovich, a member of the Reichstag.

"Never since the beginning of the war," he writes, "has the German people awaited with such tension and apprehension th eforthcoming meeting of the Reichstag. The period since the last meeting has brought us success, but also many difficulties, military setbacks and new enemies.

"After two years of fighting, bloodshed and self-denial, the peace for which every heart longs is still at any immeasurable distance. The fighting lust of the enemy has been revived by Russian successes and the entry of Rumania. The whole people stand at the gate ,waiting and asking.

"The Reichstag leaders will have to listen to speeches stronger than ever on the events of the last few weeks. Therefore, it wre wise to consider carefully whether the leaders of all our great parties should not be called together to form a coalition ministry."

MAY BUILD A TRACTOR EVEN MORE POWERFUL

The Name of Inventor of Monster Fighter is Not Disclosed.

Invention Was Brought to Attention of British War Office in Early Part of War Associated Press Learns.

London, Sept. 19.—While friends are claiming for Winston Spencer Churchill, former first lord of the admiralty, and Colonel Swinton the credit for the discovery of the "tanks" which played such an important part in the recent advance on the Somme front, the original inventor remains undisclosed, but the Associated Press is informed by a reliable authority that the new war machine is an adaptation of the caterpillar tractor.

According to this authority the invention was brought to the attention of the war office early in the war. Great Britain declined to finance the project unless the machines were manufactured in England.

These armored ships on land are mounted on four caterpillar tractors, which not only make the machine incapable of being capsized but enable it to cross ditches. The idea of using a caterpillar tractor has been worked on for the last ten years and the problem was solved finally by equipping the machine with engines of such tremendous horse power that they are able to pull the heaviest harvesting machines and gang plows over extremely rough ground.

The man who brought the plans to England declines to permit the use of his name, declaring that for business reasons he does not desire to dim the glory of those claiming the credit.

AUTHORITY EXTENDED 556 BANK DIRECTORS

May Serve on Boards of State Banking Institutions.

Federal Reserve Board Defines Words, "Substantial Competition" in the Kern Amendment to the Clayton Act.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Out of a total of 679 applying, 556 directors of National banks throughout the country have been authorized by the Federal Reserve Board to serve as directors of other banking institutions under the modified Clayton Act, which now permits the board to extend such authorization where the National bank and private or state institutions affected are not in "substantial competition." In a statement tonight making this announcement and defining "substatial competition" the board said:

"The board has considered each case on its merits, but has taken the general position that the mere purchase by two banks of commercial paper in the open market or of the making of demand or time loans on collateral securities having a wide market, or the purchasing of such securities, need not necessarily or invariably be considered as indicating 'substantial competition' within the meaning of the Kern amendment. It is, however, the view of the board that 'substtantial competition' must be held to exist in cases where the resources of the banks are of such magnitude or of such character that the ability of the banks jointly to grant or to withhold credit, or otherwise to influence the conditions under which credit may be obtained, might constitute them a dominant factor in the general loan market, even though the character of the deposits carried by the institutions in question might be quite different."

Seventy-seven applications were received from the Richmond Federal Reserve District, and of these 49 were granted and 29 denied. Eight of the nine applications from the Atlanta district were granted.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 19.—Governor Henderson today rescinded his order honoring the Florida requisition for T. W. Weaver, prominent local business man, who was arrested Sunday as he was aboutto step into the pulpit to deliver a sermon, on the charge of embezzlement. Weaver was released.

HUGHES ATTACKS ADMINISTRATION FOR 8-HOUR DAY

Declares Passage of Railroad Legislation by Congress Was a "Surrender to Force."

QUOTES GROVER CLEVELAND

Challenges the Statement by Adamson That It Was Passed to Meet an Emergency.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19.—Charles E. Hughes, addressing an audience in the arsenal here tonight, renewed his attack on the administration for the passage of the Adamson law in the face of the threatened railroad strike. Mr. Hughes discussed so called "futile reasons advocated for its passage," quoted from President Wilson's address to Congress on the subject, challenged the statement of Representative Adamson that it was passed to meet an emergency, and cited a declaration attributed to Grover Cleveland in support of the contention that the law was a "surrender to force."

Mr. Hughes ,after declaring that "the just interests of labor are the concern of all," and asserting that he desired to see safe and wholesome conditions of work, adequate opportunities for education and recreation, reasonable hours of labor and fair wages, said in part:

"The Adamson bill is a force bill. It was legislation without inquiry, without knowledge. The demand by the administration for such legislation as the price of peace was a humiliating spectacle. It was not only a serious misuse of official power but a deplorable abdication of moral authority.

"The excuses presented are futile. The Adamson bill is not a bill providing for an 8-hour work day. It does not fix hours at all. It regulates wages. * * *.

"What it does is to provide by law for an increase in wages for certain men. They may work just as long as before. They may work ten hours or more. They are simply to get more pay. * * *.

Measure to Fix Wages.

"It is said for this bill that it will have a tendency to procure an 8-hour day. This is extremely doubtful, but * * * this bill must be judged by what it provides, not by what it does not provide. It is nothing more than a measure to fix wages and as a measure to fix wages, it must be judged.

"We are, therefore, not concerned with anything that is said of the judgment of society with respect to an 8-hour work day. There is plainly no judgment of society upon the increase of wages this bill requires.

"If the asserted judgment of society inspired it why does the act apply only to a limited number of railroad men, relatively few? * * *.

"The obvious fact is that there was a demand by certain men for an increase in their own wages and the administration in advance of investigation surrendered to this demand.

"What is fair and right must be done but what is fair and right must first be ascertained. When railroads are required to spend additional millions, this burden must ultimately fall on the public. * * *.

"It was proposed in substance by the administration that increased rates should be charged to shippers so far as required to pay this increase of wages. Assurance was given that no obstacles of law would be suffered to stand in the way of railroads in increasing the revenue to meet resulting increased expenses so far as development of business and of their administrative efficiency did not prove adequate to meet them.

"The Obstacle of Law"

"We may pause to ask what is the significance of this reference to 'obstacle of law.' The law provides for 'reasonable rates,' and an appropriate proceeding for fixing of reasonable rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Were these proceedings and the provisions of law the 'obstacles of law,' to which reference was made? Were they to be overcome, if necessary, to accomplish the desired increase?

"Increases of wages for selected classes of men on railroads might result in restrictions on a great number of other working men, not only those employed by railroads, but upon those employed in industries, throughout the country, if the latter be required to operate under increase transportations.

"Manifestly we have here an extremely intricate question of rates and outlays. What was the manifest duty of the executive? Plainly to insist that investigation should precede action and that nothing should be yielded to force.

"It was stated by the executive in his address to Congress that 'the matter' had been agitated for more than a year. Why then was it not investigated?

Stands For Arbitration.

"I stand for the principle of arbitration of industrial disputes. Labor, least of all, can afford to have that principle surrendered. It is a civilized method as opposed to the injurious contests of force, which impoverish labor and imperil the social order. * * *

"It is no answer to say that the awards of arbitration are not always just. The effort should be to improve reasonable methods, not to subvert them."

Athens, Sept. 19 (via London).—It is stated in the most reliable diplomatic sources here that the Austrians are preparing for the evacuation of Trieste.

NEWPORT NEWS SHUT OUT BY THE PORTSMOUTH TEAM

Newport News, Va., Sept. 19.—Parker's triple, followed by a single in the ninth today, gave Portsmouth a 1 to 0 victory over Newport News in the sixth game of the Virginia Leage post-season series. Each team now has won three and lost three. The deciding game will be played tomorrow in Norfolk.

Pearson had a shade the better of Gordonier all through the contest and the latter pulled out of a bad hole in the fifth when a man was cut off at the plate after one was at second and another on third as the result of a combination of bad breaks. Pearson, however, was assisted by magnificent fielding. Newport News twice got a runner past second. Once Gordonier was caught at the plate trying to come home from second on a drive to left. The other man to pass the keystone station died on third. Manager Fox protested the game, claiming that Nicholson, new second baseman for the Shipbuilders, was not eligible to participate in the series as he was not a member of the Virginia League.

MISS STERLING, OF ATLANTA, WINS THE QUALIFYING ROUND

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—Miss Alexia Sterling, of Atlanta, the women's Southern golf champion, won the qualifying round of the annual tournament of the Berthellyn cup today on the links of the Huntingdon Valley Country Club, with a card of 88. Mrs. Clarence H. Vanderbeck, Philadelphia, women's national title holder, finished in second place with 89.

THE BATTING LEADERS.

Though Ty Cobb on Tuesday conceded American League batting honors for 1916 to Tris Speaker he showed no falling off in his work at the plate, getting two hits in four times at bat and increasing his average one point. Speaker also gained a point by getting two hits in five times at bat. Jackson failed to hit in two times up and lost a point.

Chase, leader of the National League batters, lost five points off his margin, slipping back three when he failed to hit in four times at bat, while Wheat was gaining two points by making two hits in three trials. Hornsby made one hit in four times up and Daubert one in three times, which left their averages unchanged. Hinchman hit twice in eight times at bat and lost a point. The Standings:

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL TEAM TO BSGIN PRACTICE SOON

Team Will Have to Be Built From Ground Up, on Account of Loss

With the coming of October, local athletic interest will shift from the Robert Strange playground, where the diamond stars of the City League have been cavorting for the past few months, to Hilton Park, where the spat of toe against pigskin and the thud of falling bodies will mark the arrival of the gridiron heroes, for their annual fall drive.

While Wilmington is not so fortunate as to be the seat of a college, where the inter-collegiate games, with their accompanying hordes of yelling supporters, would make life lively during the autumn months, there is still good prospects of some snappy little scrimmages here during the coming season.

According to Coach Little, the high school eleven will have to be built from the ground up. With the exception of Davis and Farmer, two linemen, the team has lost practically all of its last year's 'varsity team. Rose, the all-state prep. center, together with Bagley, Hall, Grant, Silverman, Rhodes and Johnson, have either graduated or dropped out of school. Johnson will probably make a try for honors at Georgia Tech.

With the opening of school, daily practices will be held at Hilton Park from 3:30 to 5 in the afternoon. By using the scrubs who showed up well last year, it is hoped that a fair combination will be whipped into shape. No arrangements have as yet been made as to a schedule, but offers have been received from Raleigh, Goldsboro and other cities. Goldsboro has asked for an engagement on October 15, at the Wayne County fair, but on account of the earliness of this date, it is doubtful if this game will be arranged. The first game will probably be played with the Railroad team or some other local aggregation, on or about the middle of October.

DAVIDSON FOOTBALL SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED; SQUAD PRACTICING

Davidson, N. C., Sept. 19.—The practice that has been going on for the past few days indicates that the Davidson football squad is not going to fail this year to preserve the former reputation made for the college. The boys are working to be ready for the first game of the season that is to be played on the 30th of this month. This game is unusually hard for a starter, but the squad will go to battle with the Virginians for their opening game in Charlottesville.

The schedule follows:

September 30, University of Virginia, at Charlottesville, Va.
October 7, A. & M. at Charlotte.
October 14, Georgia Tech. at Atlanta, Ga.
October 21, Citadel at Davidson.
October 28, Roanoke College at Roanoke, Va.
November 4, Furman University at Greenville, S. C.
November 11, University of North Carolina at Winston-Salem.
November 18, open.
November 30, Clemson at Charlotte.

COBB CONCEDES BATTING CHAMPIONSHIP TO SPEAKER

Detroit, Sept. 19.—Tyrus Cobb, for nine years the leading batsman of the American League ,today conceded that Tris Speaker, of the Cleveland Club, would be the 1916 champion. Speaker now has a margin of nearly 300 points over Cobb, according to unofficial averages. Cobb said it is a human impossibility for him to try to cut down this led and at the same time to cooperate in team play to the fullest extent of his ability. Cobb's individual efforts won two of Detroit's recent victories.

Detroit, Sept. 19.—Boston won from Detroit today, 3 to 1, in the first game of the series, which is expected to go far toward deciding the American League championship. Detroit was unable to hit Mays when men were waiting to score. Dauss, usually effective against Boston, walked five men, three in the first inning. One of these, Shorten, scored on a single by Lewis.

Shorten also scored Boston's second run in the seventh. He doubled down the left field foul line and counted on two successive sacrifices. Hooper's triple, following a single by Mays, accounted for the other Boston run in the eighth.

Two singles and an out gave Detroit one in the fifth.

NOW A LEGALIZED BUREAU OF NAVY

Members of Civilian Consulting Board Placed on Rolls as Government Officers.

MR. EDISON IS CHAIRMAN

Impressive Ceremonies Held in Secretary Daniels' Office—Members to Witness Target Practice of the Fleet.

Washington, Sept. 19.—The Navy Civilian Consulting Board, composed of 24 of the nation's most eminent scientists and engineers, took its place today as a legalized bureau of the Navy Department, and the name of its members, headed by Thomas A. Edison as chairman, were placed on the rolls under a recent act of Congress as "officers of the United States government."

The board's inauguration was attended by impressive ceremonies held in the office of Secretary Daniels. The highest ranking officers of the department were present and welcomed their new comrades to the naval service.

Secretary Daniels, speaking as administrative head of the Navy, declared that the occasion signified a great strengthening for the nation's first line of defense and gave renewed promise for the restoration of American prestige on the seas.

Immediately upon taking the oath of office, the board members effected a permanent official organization.

Mr. Edison was elected chairman; William L. Saunders, of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, and Dr. Peter C. Hewitt, of the Inventors' Guild, both of New York city, were selected as vice chairmen; and Thomas Robbins, of the Inventors' Guild, was appointed secretary.

Preliminary plans for the $1,500,000 naval laboratory to be built under the board's direction, were discussed and a committee of six was appointed to investigate and report on a suitable site. No time was fixed, but it was said the work would be expedited with a view of beginning actual construction as soon as possible. The committee was composed of Mr. Edison, Mr. Robbins, W. R. Whitney, L. H. Baekeland, Frank J. Sprague and Lawrence Addicks.

MUSIC AND THE MOVIES.

Melody of Higher Order Seems to be Supplanting Ragtime.

(From the Cincinnati Times-Star.)

Has Apollo from his celestrial heights cast a spell over numerous movie musicians in downtown Cincinnati? Or has the god of music reincarnated himself in manifold and taken to playing the massive orchestrions which now are feateures of the filmed drama.

Something has happened to movie music of late which makes the agonizing age of syncophated jingles seem a nightmare of the long ago. The other day we dropped into a movie at noon to escape the heat. A plaintive and familiar melody from the orchestrion fell upon the ear. With no little amazement we recognized Tshaikowsky's Symphony Pathetique. The musician was apparently lost in its beauty and under a spell. She—for it was a woman—forgot the clattering hoofbeats which should have accompanied an equestrian runaway, and poured out the rich harmonies of the great Russian composer.

In another movie theatre a day or two later we sat before a gloomy drama of the slums. But its sordid tale was overshadowed as there came to ear the majestic march from "Parsifal," and alter the motif for the Holy Grail. On still another occasion, and in another theatre, we encountered Edward A. MacDowell's exquisite "Woodland Scenes," and in turn "Lohengrin," "Pagliacci," the Morris dances, Mimi's aria from "La Boheme," fragments from Grieg and Chopin. Apollo was at work in many theatres, and the result was in strange contrast to other days, when the Whangdoodle Rag and its kin were the order of the hour.

ATTACKS RENEWED ON ARMY APPROPRIATIONS

Socialist Candidate Benson Assails Representative Hay

Charges Him With Making Contradictory Statements as to Word "Draft" in Army Bill—Says it was Smuggled.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 19. — Allan Benson, Socialist candidate for President, spoke here this evening in Tomlinson hall, renewing his attack upon the military appropriations for the present year, which, he said, were the greatest ever made in time of peace by any nation, and far greater than the appropriations made by any of the warring powers the year before the war began. Mr. Benson also criticised Section 79 of the Hay-Chamberlain army reorganization bill, which authorizes the President, in time of war, to draft American citizens into the army.

"The word 'draft' was smuggled into this law," he said. "It was not there when it first passed the House of Representatives. I charge James Hay, then a representative in Congress from Virginia and one of the seven members of the conference committee, with making two absolutely contradictory statements with regard to the word 'draft,' as used in the bill. I charge that Representative Hay, on August 26, 1916, in replying in Congress to Representative Huddleston's criticism of the substitution of the word 'draft,' said he (Huddleston) based his criticism on the fact that the word 'call' was stricken out and the word 'draft' substituted in conference. I do not now recollect whether this is true or not, but what is the difference between the President being authorized to 'call' men or to 'draft' them? There is no difference, so far as the President is concerned."

HAZERS OF TIENCKEN ARE FINED $10 EACH

Develops That The Five Are Not Connected With College

Two Traveling Men Who "Insulted" Raleigh Ladies on Street Fined $50 Each and the Costs. Mistaken Identity?

(Special Star Correspondence).

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 19.—The five boys who committed depredations out at the A. & M. College several nights ago in connection with "hazing" pranks that they played on a number of freshmen, were given a hearing before Judge W. C. Harris in the city court this morning and were each fined $10 and the costs in the cases. In the hearing it was especially stressed that the young men were really in no way connected with the college and were merely visiting friends in the dormitories on the night that the incident occurred.

Besides administering "hazing" stunts to a number of students, including George Tiencken, of Wilmington, they threw rocks into windows of the dormitory as they left in resentment of a bucket of water having been thrown on them from an upper window as they were leaving. Judge Harriss, in administering the fines, pledged his best efforts to the college management in putting down any and all depredations that might be made out at the college by persons who are not under the control and authority of the college management.

Traveling Men Fined

Fines of $50 each and costs, which were specified to include the attorney's fees for the prosecution in the costs, were imposed in the city court this morning against T. L. Wood and A. D. Morris, traveling men, who were accused of making improper advances to Mrs. F. L. Koonce and her sister, Miss Mamie Denton, Sunday night near Bland Hotel. Judgements were also entered as to a couple of personal encounters that took place thereafter that grew out of the offense toward Mrs. Koonce and her sister.

Morris, who travels for the Page Belting Co., of Atlanta, testified in explanation of the incident, saying that he had an engagement with a young lady of Clayton, to meet him at Durham and then changed to Raleigh and that he mistook one of the two for her and approached her as he did. He said that he saw nothing in the demeanor of the ladies to invite attention and that it was purely his mistaking one of them for the Clayton girl that caused the incident.

WARSAW READY TO WELCOME GOOD ROADS PEOPLE TODAY

Three Weeks Term of Duplin Court Adjourns—Peculiar Phenomenon

(Special Star Correspondence).

Warsaw, N. C., Sept. 19.—Warsaw is looking forward to the meeting of the members of the Wilmington-Goldsboro Highway Association at this place on Wednesday, and is ready to give a hearty welcome to all who attend. The addresses of Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt and others will be heard with interest.

There was a peculiar phenomenon observed in the sky here on last Thursday night at about half past nine o'clock. As reported by those who observed it, it resembled a rainbow in shape and formation, but the colors, of course, were not discernible, the bow, which appeared in the Southern sky, having the color of a brilliant light.

A three weeks term of court for the trial of civil cases has just closed at Kenansville, with Judge W. A. Devin presiding. It is unusual for so long a term to be held there, but was necessary in this instance, owing to full docket.

LONG RIDES FOR A NICKEL

Low Fares in Europe Cannot Compare With Rate Here

(Electric Railway Journal).

D. J. McGrath, research assistant of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has made a study of the length of ride obtainable in the different American cities.

When one glances at the maps which have been compiled and notes that rides of 8 and 10 miles are available for a single fare in practically all the cities covered, and in some cases more than 15 miles may be ridden by transferring through the centre of the city, one is led to wonder when this expansion of ride is going to be limited.

Under the 5-cent fare system the passenger riding 10 miles or more does so at the rate of less than 0.5 cent per mile. The often quoted low fares of European cities cannot begin to compare with this rate. In our American cities, of course, only a small proportion of the passengers ride these long distances, and the loss involved in transporting them is more or less made up by the profit upon the short rides. It must be remembered, however, that as the populations of the cities increase more and more people spread out into the outlying suburbs, while the more central territory approaches its maximum capacity to house people.

Consequently the proportion of long riders may naturally be expected to increase. In the horse car days of only a quarter of a century ago, when a few short and often unconnected lines constituted the entire traction system of any particular city, the people were glad to pay a nickel even for the limited service.

MRS. L. A. WANET HAD TO BEND OVER BECAUSE OF PAINS

Phoenix Lady Tells How Tanlac, of All Medicines, Helped Her After Suffering for 10 Years. Statement Made Here.

Mrs. L. A. Wanet, of Phoenix, was among the recent out-of-town callers at the Bellamy Drug Store to personally thank the Tanlac Man for benefits received from the reconstructive tonic he is introducing to Wilmingtonians.

"I suffered from kidney troubles for the past ten years," Mrs. Wanet said, "and Tanlac is the best medicine I have ever taken and I prefer it to anything I have ever tried, as it has done me so much good that I gladly give my statement, so others may be reached by it through the papers.

"My appetite was very poor, and I was in a weak, run-down condition. I would stay wide awake all night. My back gave me lots of trouble and, when attacked frequently by a burning sensation, I had to bend over to ease my pain. Headaches also bothered me and quite often spells would come on like fainting attacks, and I had to take to bed. Everything seemed black to me. Before seeing Tanlac advertised, I had tried about everything I heard of without gaining a particle.

"But now," she smiled, "I have a splendid appetite—can eat and enjoy anything I care to—my back no longer hurts me, my head is much better, I am so much stronger than I was, and am able to get around and do some work."

The change that Tanlac brought for Mrs. Wanet is hard to realize unless the reader has suffered from any of the ailments described by the Phoenix lady. And, her story is no exception to the many heard daily by the Tanlac Man from men and women who have given Tanlac a fair trial.

Tanlac is sold in Wilmington, at the Bellamy Drug Store, exclusively; Acme, Acme Store Co.; Burgaw, C. L. Halstead; Southport, Watson's Pharmacy; Rocky Point, A. N. Rhodes & Co.; Supply, H. W. Kirby; New Bern, Bradham Drug Store; Magnolia, W. L. Southall; Faison, Faison Drug Co.; Pembroke, G. W. Locklear; Fairbluff, J. P. Waddell, Sr. Each town has its Tanlac dealer.

DISEASE NOW REPORTED TO BE SUBSIDING IN FRANCE

Paris, Sept. 19.—The disease of infantile paralysis, according to a statement made by Director of Public Health Brisac at the Academy of Medicine now is subsiding in France.

A report on the subject by Dr. Arnold Netter, a member of the academy, said the disease always attained its maximum in August and September, and adds that infantile paralysis is not epidemic and occurs only in isolated cases. The report declared there was no reason to fear that the diseas ewill take on a contagious character.

MUCH SPEAKING IN ONSLOW

County Superintendents to Meet in Laurinburg—Tobacco Business Booming—Jacksonville News.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Jacksonville, N. C., Sept. 19.—That Onslow county voters will hear the issues of the 1916 campaign discussed there seems to be no doubt. A schedule of the State speakers for Onslow is as follows: Jacksonville, September 23, Hon. Cameron Morrison; October 9, Hon. Neil A. Sinclair; also Geo. E. Butler, candidate for Congress against Hon. Geo. E. Hood, will speak here on the 22nd; Swansboro, Hon. Cameron Morrison, night of September 23rd; Richlands, Hon. H. S. Ward, September 30th, and Mr. Butler will also speak there September 23rd.

It is believed that both Senator Simmons and Hon. Claude Kitchin will make addresses here before the close of the campaign.

The news that Hon. Woodus Kellum, native of Onslow county, had been elected a member of the Board of Education of New Hanover county was read with interest by his host of friends and admirers here.

Doubtless never before has there been as much interest aroused here over an entertaining event of its kind as is now in evidence over the coming Chautauqua event. Ticket sellers divided in Red and Blue sections are going out in the highways and hedges and hundreds of tickets are being sold.

The Onslow County Teachers' Association will have its first meeting in the court house here on Saturday before the first Monday in November.

The South East District Association of County Superintendents will hold their annual meeting at Laurinburg, September 27th and 28th. Supt. Walter M. Thompson, of Onslow county, is president of the association and will make the opening address. The following topics will be discussed and considered in round table conference:

County Institute and Its Adaptation to Work of Country Teachers; County Teachers' Association and Reading Circle; Examination and Certification of Teachers; Attendance; Moonlight Schools; Rural Library—Its Preservation and Use; Larger Type of Rural School and How to Get It; School Buildings; Suggested Topics for Meeting of State Association.

The meetings will begin Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock and will adjourn Thursday afternoon.

Uncle Sam's business here, according to Postmaster John B. Petteway, is steadily increasing and for the past two weeks has been gaining wonderfully. There is bitterness, however, for the postmaster beginning October 1st and extending for 15 days when every parcel post package will have to be weighed and its weight recorded and sent to the department.

One of the most important social events that has taken place here in many months was the marriage last Thursday evening of Miss Gertie Walton, to Mr. Guy Lockamy. The marriage took place at the home of the bride, three miles from here, and Justice R. N. Scott spoke the words that made the couple man and wife. Mrs. R. C. Warlick played the march. After the ceremony the bride and groom autoed to this city where they will make their future home. Mrs. Lockamy is an accomplished and attractive young woman, and Mr. Lockamy is a promising young business man. Those from here who attended the wedding were: Mrs. R. C. Warlick and Mrs. R. N. Scott, Misses Bessie Lockamy and Rachel Scott, and Messrs. R. W. Ward, Frank T. Yopp, R. N. Scott and M. M. Capps.

Reports from Richlands are to the effect that never before since the town had boasted a tobacco market has there been so much of the weed carried to the place and such fancy prices paid for it. Merchants in that city are realizing fine trade by reason of the market and are thoroughly advertising the advantages to the farmer in going there.

Astonishing Power of Iron to Give Strength to Broken Down Nervous People

Physician Says Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate Folk 200 Per Cent. in Two Weeks' Time, in Many Instances.

New York, N. Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, a well known Specialist who has studied widely both in this country and Europe, said: "If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue, and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down, and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night; others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your fagging vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what any one tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the time double, and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good, sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron, like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated, and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated Iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the announcement that they will forfeit $100.00 to any Charitable Institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed by all druggists.

MENHADEN AND SHRIMP NOW PLENTIFUL; BUSINESS BOOMS

Neptune Fisheries Company Will Operate Its Own Fishing Boats.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Southport, N. C., Sept. 19.—Not in this correspondence, but through some individual statement, and disunderstanding, there appeared in The Star some weks ago an item regarding the Neptune Fisheries Company, to the effect that this company would buy its menhaden from outside fishing steamers. The company will, in fact, employ its own boats in getting fish for its factory, as required by law. Captain Bussells and those engaged with him in this new company are too well acquainted with the business to act in any questionable way, much less transgress the well-known fish laws.

The Dosher-St. George shrimp factory factory is up the Elizabeth river, near here, are having great catches of menhaden, which are large and fat.

The Dosher-St. George shrip factory had its biggest run of shrimp yesterday, the quantity arriving taking way after midnight before the boats were unloaded. While the canning continues with all the hands that are obtainable, about 150 being at work, a shipment was made of the raw product, in boxes, iced, this morning, by express to northern markets. The weather for several days has been very favorable for getting big hauls of menhaden and shrimp.

TOP O' THE MORNING.

True courage teaches us in the midst of life's greatest comforts, to be willing to die; and in the midst of its greatest crosses to be willing to live. —SELECTED.

All aboard for Warsaw today!

The real paramount question is nutrition. Intervention isn't in it.

What has become of the old fashioned campaigner who called his opponent a pusillanimous political pariah?

If the Republicans desire to arrest the attention of the people of North Carolina, they will find out that it will successfully resist arrest.

Lots of men are not satisfied with their independence, but go around insisting on having liberty such as will finally land them at Keeley.

One of the greatest advantages of a modern highway is that both sides of it offer the best of opportunities for fine farms and pretty rural homes.

A great many are not worrying over their own rights or the public's rights, but they are fretting awfully about somebody's vested rights in Mexico.

An Ohio man refused to eat anything for 70 days, but his long fast failed to prove a success. On the 71st day the undertaker was called in to do the rest.

Says the Jacksonville Times-Union: "A contemporary says when the Democratic committee proposes twenty-one questions to Mr. Hughes, it recognizes him as a Sphinx." Huh! It strikes us that it mistook him for an oracle.

Man goes forth and thinks he is going some, but sooner or later somebody or other ties a can to him about the time he begins to labor under the delusion that he can kick a lion on the jaw. Little things like this are awful, Mabel, but the truth is mighty and will prevail.

Down town a man is recognized as authority, but he never lets on that the real authority is at home exercising it without waiting for the action of any other nation. This statement can be disputed with more or less agility but not half enough to palm off a common, ordinary denial as a real article of refutation.

The people will be glad to learn that the per capita wealth of this country is $2,000 or thereabouts. The statisticians get at it by dividing our wealth by the number of people in this country, but the statisticians would entertain us a little more if they could divide it among the people so they can kiss their money good bye for 20 cents bacon.

The Jacksonville Times-Union notes that "statistics show that 60,000,000 people in the United States have no church connection." Nevertheless, some people who have more or less relations with religion are trying to drag it into politics to be voted upon by a non-affiliated majority. Those who have religion ought to think too much of it to let it get mixed up in politics.

Some writer says: "Do something useful during your leisure moments." We approve the idea, but, of course, if a fellow is always doing something how would it be possible for him to have any leizure moments? Anyhow, when you are not doing what you always do, get busy and do something else. If there is any such thing as keeping busy while you are idle, go right on and get busy. You might want to know where the philosophy of it all comes in, but what's the use to start something about philosophy coming in when you are always busy while you are at leisure and while you imagine you are idle?

A GREAT STRIKE AVERTER IS NEEDED

New York is in need of a great strike averter! The people have heard a great many objections to the Wilson way of averting the railway trainmen's strike, but the critics have greatly disappointed the people by not readily informing them of a better way to avert New York's big strike.

We can't blame the people for being disappointed in Wilson's critics, since they have had plenty of time to submit a plan that might have been better than Wilson's plan. The President did not have much time to arrange a plan to avert the strike but his critics have had all sorts of time to propose some sort of plan or any old sort of plan. Their inability and neglect to do so is causing the people to become suspicious. They reasonably suspect that none of those who object to Wilson's plan have any plan at all and don't even know how to originate a plan that would have averted a strike calamity that would have put about all of us out of a job.

Unless the people are soon put next to a plan that is better than Wilson's, they are liable to believe that there isn't any such plan. At any rate, the critics have taken the precaution to keep it concealed from the people. Nevertheless, a tremendous reputation awaits any man who can submit a plan that is equally as good as Wilson's, but nobody seems to want to seize the opportunity to become famous as a strike averter. It puzzles the people and it puzzles us to know why the chance to acquire a lasting reputation is utterly neglected.

President Wilson had an opportunity to avert a huge strike. He seized that opportunity and acted. Since then another disastrous strike is pending in New York city, scheduled to be in full swing tomorrow. It is a shame that none of us have rushed to New York to avert that strike. It offered every one of us the opportunity of our lives, but we have remained on the outside of the limelight and none of us has hastened to New York to say "Nay, Pauline," to the strike.

If any man in America knows how to save New York from the terrible consequences of a strike, it is a crime to withhold it. Any man who can do it can get his name in every newspaper in America and also have his picture printed on the front page of all the New York papers.

We are wondering why the dickens all the strike averters don't make a break for New York and pull off a strike averting plan that has Wilson's skinned to a finish. If we knew of any such plan we would be in New York right now, and the whole world would be contrasting our plan with the "unsatisfactory" plan that the President is alleged to have sprung for averting a strike. All of us who have not gone to New York's rescue have laid down on ourselves and laid down on New York and laid down on the whole United States.

We never have had many opportunities to swoop down on nation-wide fame, but that opportunity is now facing us and everybody in America, and it is strange that none of us show the slightest disposition to get fame while you wait. Men can hand out a silo full of bunk in the way of criticising Wilson's plan or any old plan, but it is all after the thing has had its finish and smart criticism passes for wisdom. New York needs a great strike averter right now.

GOING TO LIVE IN CLOVER

It is learned from the Columbit State that the farmers of Laurens county are preparing to plant 1,200 acres in crimson clover this fall. The announcement comes from Mr. Percy W. Moore, farm demonstrator for that county, and this determination among the farmers of that county has been brought about by the intelligent and persistent efforts of the demonstrator. He has been carrying on a co-operative clover campaign and the farmers were enlisted in the cause by getting them to organize the Laurens County Clover Club. A Laurens dispatch says:

"The enterprise is not only the biggest thing on foot in Laurens, but it surpasses anything of its kind in the state, according to authoritative information. Twenty-four thousand pounds, or 12 tons, of seed have been ordered through the county agricultural department and the shipment was made yesterday from a large wholesale seed house, Mr. Moore being so advised Saturday. The house from which the seed was purchased says that the Laurens order was the largest ever filled by the firm. These seed will be received by 200 Laurens county farmers, the shipments being made individually, and as stated 1,200 acres of Laurens county farm land will be sown to this important cover crop, for that is the purpose of the whole scheme. The seed cost 12 1-2 cents per pound and they came from France.

"The co-operative clover crop campaign, as it has been rightly termed, has been in progress for several weeks under the direction of Mr. Moore and the success of it has been a great gratification to the faithful and enthusiastic farm demonstrator as well as those who have co-operated with him in the enterprise. Having assurance that the scheme was going to be a success, Mr. Moore has already been distributing information, obtained through the National Department of Agriculture, on the proper method of preparing the soil and planting the seed, and each subscriber will be provided with full directions on this important point. As intimated, this first crop on such a large scale will be devoted practically altogether as a cover crop, the main idea being to bring about an improvement in the productiveness of Laurens county farm lands. Of course, as Mr. Moore has explained, each farmer can first save the seed from the crop before turning it under next spring. Certainly it will be optional with him as to whether he desires to save a part or all of, it as a forage crop. But it is the understanding that the first proposition is the aim and import of the plan. Free of cost, the government is going to furnish every clover farmer with "pure culture" with which the seed will be inoculated before being sown."

All this indicates the great usefulness of farm demonstrators who have the ability to lead on progressive lines and it also shows the readiness of the farmers to co-operate along approved lines for the betterment of their farming system. A greater diversification of farm crops means more farm income and that certainly ought to appeal to farmers all over the South. As a general thing the ordinary cotton or tobacco farm income is as much outgo as it is income. It comes in only at one brief season of the year and goes right out for the payment of fertilizer bills and store accounts for food and feedstuffs and general supplies needed on the farm.

The farmers are now realizing that the farm demonstrator is their first aid to farming and they no longer scoff at the idea that they have to have a teacher on farming. A demonstrator in Eastern North Carolina once told us that for a long time he was at a loss how to earn his salary as a teacher of modern farming. He said the farmers told him he was perfectly welcome to call around just so he didn't try to spring any new fangled idea on them about farming. They thought they knew all about farming and it was their opinion that he sought to come to them and get all his pointers. It embarrassed him in his work, as his suggestions either made the farmers laugh at him or get mad with him. It is different now, for intelligent farmers know that there is lots to learn and that they can learn something from a farm demonstrator and that he is only too willing to learn something from them. They are exchanging experiences and co-operating in the study and settlement of farm problems.

When the farmers become convinced that there is money in clover and forage crops and in raising livestock and profiting from dairy farming on the side, they will be quick to undertake it so far as their capital will enable them to go. Like any other kind of business, farming requires capital and the lack of it accounts for the slow progress that has been made in modern farming. It is all right to tell a farmer what to do and how to do it, but what he needs after that is capital with which to do what he probably would like to do. That is where the Wilson Land Bank act will come in, and besides that, modern agriculture opens the way for local capitalists to aid in financing the farmers on all substantial propositions in hand.

THE SAME OLD PARTY

The same old Republican party is endeavoring to get back into power with its same old leaders. Four years ago Colonel Roosevelt and the Progressives quit the G. O. P. on account of its leaders and because the party betrayed the people, as declared by the Colonel, yet he is again supporting that party and is aiding and abetting those whom he denounced four years ago as an aggregation of pirates. The question is whether or not the Progressives will follow a backslider and turn their backs upon civic righteousness and Armageddon. What can people think of a man who abandons evil and denounces it and then embraces it again when the opportunity presents itself to him? The hog returns to its wallow, but that is no excuse for a man.

THE CAROLINA PACKING COMPANY

The packing house rally at the court house yesterday was featured by a splendid address by Senator Moses E. Clapp, of Minnesota, and the taking of practical steps to organize the Carolina Packing Company as the culmination of the vigorous campaign in behalf of a meat packing industry and stockyard market for Wilmington and all her tributary territory.

Elsewhere in The Star is carried an interesting story of the rally at the court house. The Star is particularly gratified that the live citizens of Wilmington attended in large numbers and that the practical speech of Senator Clapp made a deep impression upon all who heard him. His speech was greatly appreciated and it aroused considerably more enthusiasm for the projected packing house enterprise.

In a brief way it can be stated here that the distinguished Minnesotan emphasized the great importance of the livestock industry by pointing to the tremendous development that has resulted from it in Minnesota and other states of that portion of the West. To the complete development of the livestock industry he attributed the small packing houes and the creamery and creese making industries that grow up with it and which also promote and encourage animal husbandry in turn. Senator Clapp gave credit to the collateral industries for making cattle and hog raising a great success in Minnesota and to all he attributed the wonderful prosperity of his state. He declared that the small packing house flourishes in his state right in the shadow of the great packing house industry of Chicago, and he emphasized the point that their success was a striking illustration of their investment importance in addition to the value of these establishments as a means of taking care of and promoting the animal husbandry and dairying industries as a complete system combining all the features necessary to the development of all.

His speech is given more in detail in The Star's local columns, and it is worthy of note that increased enthusiasm was manifest at the conclusion of his talk. Subsequent to the Senator's speech, the Carolina Packing Company was organized and a board of directors was elected to perfect the organization by the election of officers and to make all the necessary arrangements for getting down to business.

CURRENT COMMENT.

If the Republicans can make enough of a stir in this State to get their share of the national campaign fund they will be satisfied.—Durham Herald (Ind.)

We associate "Tipperary" with the war, but "Tipperary" was already in existence in August, 1914, and it is only by the accident of date that our men did not march to Mons singing "Dixie" or "You Made Me Love You." Now "Tipperary" is forgotten, and nothing has arisen to take its place. For this purpose the homegrown ballad does not count in the least. Of course, a great deal of topical doggbrel has come from the trenches and some admirable poetry, but the real song of the war has yet to be evolved.—London (Eng.) Observer.

Tomorrow morning Craven county's farm life school, located at Vanceboro, will begin its 1916-17 term and advance reports coming from that section are to the effect that this will be the most successful term in the history of that institution. We remember well the days when the first talk of erecting and operating a farm life school in Craven county, was being heard. There were some who declared that the school would not prove to be a success; that there was no real need for such an institution and that the county and state could devote the money which would be expended for this institution to some channel that would be of more real worth. Fortunately these suggestions were not given much consideration and today Craven county is the proud possessor of the first farm life school in the State and it is proving to be just the institution that was needed and its power bids fair to increase as the years roll by.—New Bern Sun-Journal.

DOINGS AROUND DUNN.

Street Paving Progresses—School Opens—New Business—Deaths.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Dunn, N. C., Sept. 19.—Mrs. Lula Pridgen, wife of D. J. Pridgen, of Durham, and daughter of Mr. Troy Parker, of this township, died Saturday morning at her home in Durham. Mrs. Pridgen had been married 17 years. She leaves a husband and seven children. She was buried Sunday at Bethsadia church. The funeral was conducted by Elder W. G. Turner.

Monday evening at 3 o'clock Mr. Jesse McLamb, a good farmer of this township, died from a stroke of paralysis which came about a week ago and from which he never recovered. He was about 60 years old and leaves a wife and family. He was a good farmer and had accumulated right much property.

The Crescent Company will open up a Five-and-Ten cent store in the Shell building on Broad street next week. The buiding at present is under repairs, and the front will be painted red, as is usual with a Five-and-Ten cent store. The syndicate has money behind it and will make a success.

The paving of Broad street is rapidly progressing. The last coat is at present being put on and Dunn will soon have one of the prettiest streets in the State. A "white way" is also being advocated and may soon become a reality. The town only expects to pave Broad street and the Public Square, but the citizens of Divine street and that section of the town are asking for an extension.

Last Thursday the Dunn graded school opened with Prof. J. C. Lockhart, of Apex, as superintendent, assisted by 13 teachers. The school opened with quite a large attendance. This district has about one thousand children of school age. Professor Lockhart was taken quite sick on the opening day and has not been able to be in school since. He will probable be at his post the latter part of the week.

A great deal of cotton is on the market this week. The price is at present 15 cents and this section has perhaps a better crop than most sections this year. A five hundred pound bale and the seed bring a hundred dollars under Woodrow Wilson prices.

EFIRD STORE AT ROCKY MOUNT

Another of the Chain to be Opened There October 1st.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Rocky Mount, N. C., Sept. 19.—An announcement of interest and importance and of a valued addition to the mercantile business in this city was made yesterday when Messrs. J. W. Efird, of Durham, and E. L. Efird, of Winston leased the spacious store building formerly occupied by M. Oppenheimer as a department grocery, and announced the opening about October 1st of the eighth store in the Efird brothers chain of stores in the Carolinas. This company now controls large department stores at Charlotte, Gastonia, Concord, Winston-Salem, Durham and Rock Hill and Columbia, S. C., and it is understood that it is one of the largest organizations of brothers in the nation that are engaged in the department store business.

MORRIS PLAN BANK OPENS

New Institution at Rocky Mount Has Remarkable Beginning.

(Special Star Correspondence).

Rocky Mount, N. C., Sept. 19.—With the stock $10,000 over-subscribed and with every dollar of the $40,000 capital stock paid on the day it opened business, the Morris Plan Company, of Rocky Mount, entered business in this city on Friday last. The institution on its opening day made loans approximating $11,000 and there appears to be a lively interest upon the part of the community in the institution. Though several cities of the State plan for the organization of these Morris plan companies, which are more generally known as Morris plan banks, High Point and this city appear to be in the lead, though Greensboro and Wilson are planning for the organizations at an early date.

HERTY LARGELY RESPONSIBLE FOR SPECIAL CHEMICAL EDITION

Editor Manufacturers' Record Praises Work of Carolina Professor.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 19.—In line with the great advancement of chemical industries in the South and the emphasis now being laid on the South as a field for chemical development is the work of a Carolina chemist who has been chiefly responsible for the recent number of the Manufacturers Record, entitled "The Chemical Potentialities of the South," which has attracted such widespread notice. Dr. Charles Holmes Herty, head of the University department of chemistry and president of the American Chemical Society, really gave the impetus for this special number, declares Editor Richard H. Edmonds, of the Manufacturers' Record, in a letter to President Graham, which has been just received.

He says, in part: "It seems to me that, in view of the character of the special contributions in that issue by noted experts throughout the country and the wide circulation that we have been able to give it, this will be far and away the most influential publication ever issued in behalf of the development of the South, and this means the development of the Nation.

"I am sure that it will interest you to know that one of the members of your faculty, Dr. Herty, is very largely responsible for whatever good may come out of this special issue."

The Shoddy Nervous System.

I HAVE received a number of letters regarding my article of July 4 last, on The Shoddy Nervous System, in which I gave some general directions as to the management and the nursing of such a case. It must be emphasized that except for laxatives and a few mild remedies, medicines should have no place in the treatment of the neurasthenic. The tonics, the bracers, the alcoholic "pick me up's," coffee and tea all have to be cut out. And how many a shoddy nervous system has been brought about by promiscuous and badly advised drug taking, generally on the recommendation of some solicitous friend. In order for right mental and physical living there has got to be a right, a normal nervous system. No harder problem presents itself to medical practice that the normalizing of a below par nervous machinery. In such cases it is the part of the sympathetic physician to direct the fight; but the actual fighting has got to be done by the patient himself.

In books of mythology you will read about the three Fates of the ancients. We today recognize those three fates just as the ancients did; only we give them other names—we call them heredity, environment and function. Nor do we moderns consider finality to lie altogether in the hands of those fates, though the ancients did, believing that there was no getting away from the influence of those three terrible sisters. We realize that man can often defy the fates successfully because the Almighty has endowed him with that most momentous of all gifts, the noble human will. By this we become coefficients, at least, in the working out of our own destinies. It is indeed in no individual's power to change his heredity, should this have been unfortunate. And yet it is abundantly proven in medical experience that enormous things can be done in the way of setting at naught an untoward heredity, such as the shoddy nervous system all too often means. The difficulties attending a vicious environment are still easier to overcome; most of us can if we but will get away from any vicinity or condition that is not good for us to be in. And wonders are done in medical science every day in the rectification of bad functioning of the bodily organs.

But the most difficult task of all is the normalizing of the perverse human will; and such unruliness underlies many cases of neurasthenia. Yet by education, training and good management the will can certainly be restored to its rightful ownership. Therein lies the cure of neurasthenia, and the rectification of the shoddy nervous system.

TIC DOULOUREUX.

Answer to N. T.: This form of neuralgia occurs in middle or advanced life and is very severe. Exposure, over work, depression, local disease of the teeth or jaw, are causes. There are intense one sided darting pains which radiate from the side of the nose or the upper lip, through the teeth or into the eye, or even the brow or head. These pains come in paroxysms lasting for a few minutes, during which the face is flushed and the eyes and nose water. There is an expression of agony. The sufferer is seldom free entirely of pain; and a breath of cold air, speaking, eating or putting out the tongue, may bring on a paroxysm. These pains may come on for a certain length of time each year. There are often spasmodic movements of the face, tongue or jaws.

NODDING SPASM.

Answer to A. M. H.: A rhythmic nodding spasm movement of the head may be a form of habit spasm or of epilepsy in children; in the latter case it is accompanied by a momentary loss of consciousness. Like other spasmodic affections this spasm may be indicative of rickets. Rickets however though often seen in Europe, is rare in this country where the living conditions are in general much better.

OFFICERS FOR PACKING COMPANY ARE ELECTED

Senator Clapp Says Industry Will Bring Prosperity.

Distinguished Speaker at Enthusiastic Meeting of Stock Subscribers Tells of Advantages—W. W. Love Named President.

That the establishment of a meat packing industry here will mean prosperity for farmers within a radius of 100 miles of this city, that this prosperity will be reflected back on this community and that the history of such establishments in Minnesota and other northern states proves that small plants can successfully compete with the so-called Packing House trust, were some of the points emphasized by United States Senator Moses E. Clapp, of Minnesota, in an able address delivered yesterday morning before a well-attended and enthusiastic organization meeting of subscribers to the capital stock of the Carolina Packing Company at the county court house.

At a meeting of the board of directors elected following Senator Clapp's address, which was held in the afternoon, the following officers of the new company were elected, subject to ratification by the stockholders at a meeting which will be held after the charter is obtained: President W. W. Love, of Wilmington; vice-president, E. A. Howes, of Atkinson; secretary-treasurer, Milton Calder, of Wilmington.

Subject to the future ratification by the stockholders under the same conditions, the following directors were elected by the stock subscribers: Messrs. W. W. Love, D. L. Gore, L. W. Davis, Milton Calder, J. W. Brooks, W. A. McGirt, T. E. Cooper, L. E. Hall, U. A. Underwood, Dr. L. B. Sasser and Mayor P. Q. Moore, all of Wilmington; O. L. Clark, of Bladen county; J. B. Clark, Bladen county; E. A. Hawes, Pender county; F. M. Foy, Pender county; E. F. Mallard, Brunswick county; C. A. Russ, Onslow county, H. A. Jarman, Onslow county; F. W. Hargett, Onslow county; J. R. Peterson, Sampson county; H. M. McAllister, Robeson, and E. F. Powell, Columbus.

Upon motion of Mr. J. W. Greer, Mr. W. W. Love was made chairman of the meeting, yesterday morning, following which Mr. Greer briefly outlined the object of the meeting. Dr. Sasser then introduced Senator Clapp, prefacing his introduction with the declaration that in his opinion the establishment of a packing house here will mean the beginning of a new era in this section for both the farmers and the business community.

Others who spoke on the advantages of such an institution included Messrs. T. E. Cooper, A. M. Lucas, J. R. Peterson, B. F. Keith, W. A. McGirt and John D. Bellamy, Esq.

In suggesting that the new company be known as the Carolina Packing Company, Mr. Greer stated that the name had been suggested by the editor of The Star, who had long been interested in the establishment of a plant here. In this connection the following resolution was introduced by a committee composed of Dr. L. B. Sasser, Messrs. D. N. Chadwick, Jr., and J. R. Peterson, and adopted:

"Be it resolved, That we, the subscribers to the capital stock of a packing plant to be built in or near the city of Wilmington do here and now organize ourselves into a company to be known as the Carolina Packing Company. Be it further resolved, that the chairman of this meeting is authorized to appoint at this time a committee of three to retire and nominate a board of directors for this company, said board to be composed of not more than twenty-four or less than sixteen, half of whom shall be chosen from the City or Wilmington and half from the surrounding territory outside of Wilmington."

Following the adoption of the resolution, Chairman Love appointed Messrs. J. A. Orrell, Henderson Cole and H. M. Owen to make nominations for tht directorate of the company. Their report was later adopted, one or two vacancies being left to be filled later on.

Senator Clapp's Address.

Senator Clapp, in his address, spoke in part as follows:

"I undertake to say today that if it were possible to place a wall around one of our great cities, still permitting access to food, the overpowering tide of the stronger rural population in a century or two would tell the story of the decay and down fall of that city. No man begins to grow and thrive in the city. The city produces sculpture and pictures but never produces real progress. Man's real progress dates from the hour when your ancestor and mine tore down the walls of the city and lived out in the open, and the strength today of modern nations is the fact that, varying in degrees, they have this rural life to draw from. That being true, we have but to consider what it is that is essential to the maintenance of this rural life. In considering that we have to realize that we are rowing a boat up stream, because there is something attractive about city life, something that draws, and in dealing with the problem of how to maintain our rural life we have to recognize that we are dealing with the problem that at the very outset presents the difficulty of being obliged to deal with something counter to the tendencies of the people."

"Now, on the basis of the question of prosperous farming we are met with the query what is the best policy and plan for agricultural development along the line seeking profit in the end. Now, don't feel that I have come here loaded with wisdom which I am grudgingly giving out to you people, wisdom that has been accumulated in my home state. I realized when I went into farming in Maryland that it was just as important for me to study conditions in Maryland as it would be if one of you people went into farming in Maryland, to study the conditions in Maryland, but I think it may not be amiss if I tell you some of the experieces we have gone through. Every great section and every city, save those greater commercial centers, of this country have had to pass through a transitional period, just as you have got to pass through one here on the farm and one here in the city of Wilmington.

"When I was a boy in Northern Wisconsin we were raising wheat altogether. If a man had said you could raise corn there he would have been set down as suffering from an over dose of the product of corn in a distilled form, and if he had suggested

ENGINEERS REFUSE REQUEST FOR BRIDGE

Structure Over River at Market Street Would be Obstruction.

Chairman W. A. McGirt, of Board of Commissioners, Urges Building of Improved Ferry Across the Cape Fear River.

The expected happened yesterday when Chairman W. A. McGirt, of the New Hanover Board of County Commissioners, was notified by Capt. C. S Ridley, United States district engineer that the chief engineer of the War Department declined to approve the plans that had been submitted for a bridge over the Cape Fear river at the foot of Market street because, in his opinion it would constitute an unreasonable obstruction to navigation.

The notification was short and to the point and did not go into particulars but it is understood that one of the main objections was that the proposed bridge did not have sufficient elevation. However, the bridge advocates have not lost hope of getting a bridge across the river but like the Christian soldier of old have buckled on their armor anew and propose to keep up the agitation until something is done.

It comes as no surprise to me, declared Chairman McGirt when he learned of the action of the War Department. The evidence as submitted at the recent hearing by pilots and experienced river captains, who have spent their lives on the Cape Fear river, he added, was too strong and convincing to permit the War Department to approve of the erection of a bridge at Market street.

With the bridge question disposed of for the time being at least, Chairman McGirt believes that the commisioners of New Hanover and Brunswick counties should get together and make arrangements for an improved ferry over the Cape Fear river. He declared that he would use his best efforts to see that this is done.

Chairman McGirt also pointed out that he had taken this position several months ago, realizing that a bridge across the river at the present time is an impracticable proposition. He had advocated an improved ferry, he stated, because he believed this to be the most practical solution of the problem of securing better transportation facilities across the Cape Fear river.

Following is the communication received by Chairman McGirt from Captain Ridley:

"Wilmington, N. C., Sept. 19, 1916.

"The Board of County Commissioners, New Hanover County,

"North Carolina.

"Gentlemen: With reference to your application submitting plans for a bridge across the Cape Fear river at Market street, I have to inform you that the chief engineer declines to approve the plans submitted, for the reason that a bridge at Market street Wilmington, N. C., as proposed, would constitute an unreasonable obstruction to navigation.

"Very truly yours

"C. S. RIDLEY.

"Captain, Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army."

INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK

Atlantic Coast Veneer Company in Prosperous Condition—Re-organized Last Night.

The Atlantic Coast Veneer Company, which began business in Wilmington about two years ago, recently increased its authorized capital stock to $100,000 and held its first reorganization meeting last night in the office of Herbert McClammy, Esq. A board of directors and officers were elected for the ensuing year. The reports from the officials showed that its affairs are in a most prosperous condition with bright prospects for the future. This is one of Wilmington's young industries which abundantly proves the desirability of locating manufacturing plants in this section.

Mr. F. F. Dutton, president of the Board of Trade at Sanford, Fla., a large dealer and broker in vegetables, has become interested in the new enterprise and was here last night to attend the reorganization meeting. He is one of the progressive citizens who is doing great things in Florida towards the development of that section. He was elected president of the local concern and will give much of his time and attention to its affairs.

A new board of directors were elected for the ensuing year composed of Messrs. R. A. Cromwell, James A. Rowan, J. H. Niggel, Jr., F. F. Dutton, of Sanford, Fla.; and H. F. Marks, also of Sanford, Fla.

The directors elected officers as follows: President, Mr. F. F. Dutton; vice-president, Mr. James A. Rowan; secretary and treasurer, Mr. H. F. Marks.

A finance committee was elected composed of Messrs. J. H. Niggel, Jr., R. A. Cromwell and George H. Hutaff.

The plant which is located at Love Grove, near Wilmington, now has a capacity of 12,000 vegetables packages a week and also about two cars a week of furniture veneer which is shipped to High Point, Grand Rapids, Mich., Boston, Mass., and other points.

The factory employes about 75 laborers and its motive power is furnished by electricity. Pine, gum, poplar and other woods indigenous to this vicinity are used.

Mr. Marks recently arrived in Wilmington from Sanford to become secretary and treasurer of the plant.

RETURNS WITH CAR

Buddie McDonald Only Took a "Fare" to Goldsboro and Back.

Buddie McDonald, colored, who has been missing for some time with a new Dodge automobile belonging to Mr B. B. Cameron, manager of Mr. W. D. MacMillan's garage, returned to the city Monday afternoon with the car in good shape. McDonald left with the car Sunday morning for Goldsboro without telling anyone where he was going. When he did not show up later in the day at the garage, where he was regularly employed, Mr. Cameron became alarmed and had the Sheriff's office send out a description of the car to various points hereabouts asking that the authorities keep a sharp lookout.

Although some mystery still attaches to the disappearance of the car, according to the negro's accounts he took a "fare" to Goldsboro and back. It seems that McDonald had asked permission to take the car out in the first instance, but returned to the garage and filled the tank with gasoline for the extended journey to Goldsboro, without the knowledge of the owner.

TOOK TOO MUCH DRUGS?

Mr. C. J. Elmore Carried to Hospital Suffering From Convulsions.

Mr. Clement J. Elmore, of No. 708 North Fifth avenue, foreman of the Southern Exchange Company, was removed from his home to the James Walker Memorial Hospital shortly before 10 o'clock last night suffering from convulsions, and was reported as being in a critical condition. Advices from the hospital late last night were to the effect that Mr. Elmore was resting quietly, but that it was impossible to say whether his condition was improved or not.

It is stated that Mr. Elmore's condition was brought about by his taking an unusual amount of various drugs last night. At the time he was removed to the hospital he was in such convulsions that it was necessary to call in neighbors to hold him on the bed.

A. D. MURPHY FOUND GUILTY

Fined $25 and Costs for Assault on Nick Jordan in Star Cafe a Few Nights Ago—Scott Acquitted

Mr. A. D. Murphy was found guilty in Recorder's court yesterday morning of an assault with a deadly weapon on Nick Jordan, a Greek, during an affray in the Star Cafe, on North Front street, a few night ago. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and the costs. Mr. W. D. Scott, who was a co-defendant with Mr. Murphy, was acquitted. W. F. Jones, Esq., assisted Solicitor Peschau in the prosecution, while L. Clayton Grant and C. C. Cashwell, Esqs., appeared for the defense. Murphy was also fined $10 and costs for carrying a deadly weapon.

According to the evidence brought out yesterday, the trouble between the men began over a cigarette that was laid on a table in the cafe, by one of the defendants. Fords over payment of the damages ensued, and then Jordan alleges that Murphy hit him in the face with a pair of "knucks." Murphy and Scott claimed that the Greek followed them to the door of the cafe as they were leaving and attempted to assault them with a knife. It was then, according to Murphy, that he hit Jordan.

Frances Highsmith, colored, was convicted of selling whiskey to Charlie Robinson, colored, and fined $25 and costs, after a strenuous and at times lively legal fight. Frances vigorously protested her innocence, and so did John D. Belamy, Esq., her counsel. In addition to the testimony of Robinson, the State wove around Frances a net of circumstantial evidence that neither her protestations of innocence nor her attorney's eloquence could break.

A marked fifty-cent piece given to Robinson just before he entered Frances' home, and found later in her possession when officers searched the premises played an important part in the final result. Both Solicitor Peschau for the State and Mr. Bellamy for the defense were at times bitter in their denunciation of witnesses in the case. Several alleged tax dodgers had their cases nol prossed.

ESTATE OF MR. SAM BEAR, JR., WAS SETTLED YESTERDAY

Late Wilmington Man Left Over $30,000 to Various Charities.

The estate of the late Samuel Bear, Jr., was settled yesterday in the office of Hon. J. O. Carr, attorney for the estate, all legatees being paid, and the residuary estate paid over to the widow, Mrs. Fannie Bear.

The Bear estate commands attention by reason of the charitable legacies and promptness in settling the estate, which latter feature bears testimony to the efficiency of Trust Company administrations and the example thus set will likely benefit local trust companies in their activities for such business. When one considers the time usually required to settle an estate by individuals, where the pressure of other business matters prevents close attention required, the advantage of having a trust company act as executor and trustee is apparent.

Mr. Bear died on the third day of March, 1916; it therefore required only a few days more than six months to settle his estate and this in spite of the fact that the estate is one of the largest in Wilmington for several years, and the property and interests were greatly diversified.

Shortly after the Bankers' Trust Company received letters of administration it was found that, by reason of a technicality in the laws of the State, there might be some question as to whether the trust company could properly qualify. In order to avoid any possible delay in the settlement, and to be on the safe side, the company tendered its resignation and the court appointed Mrs. Fannie Bear, the widow, and Mr. Louis M. Bunting, administrators, with will annexed, the trust company continuing, as their agent, to manage the affairs of the estate.

Among the legacies which were left under the Bear will were the following to charitable institutions: National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives, $5,000; Hebrew Orphan Home, $5,000; Temple of Israel, $3,000; Catherine Kennedy Home (Trust Fund), $10,000; James Walker Hospital, $10,000.

Few people lived in Wilmington who were more highly esteemed than Mr. Sam Bear, Jr., and his philanthropy permanently impressed this community.

CAPTAIN RIDLEY IS ORDERED TO WASHINGTON FOR DUTY

Local Army Engineer is Assigned to Temporary Duty There.

Capt. C. S. Ridley, United States Army Engineer in charge of the Wilmington district, who will be succeeded here within the next few days by Maj. E. A. Waldron, of Washington, D. C., received an order yesterday morning from the War Department directing him to report for temporary duty at the office of General William Black, chief of the United States Engineer Corps at Washington. The staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, will not open until October 15, and it is understood that Captain Ridley will be stationed in Washington until that date.

Captain Ridley, who will be accompanied to Washington by Mrs. Ridley, will leave for his new station next Friday, if he can complete the work of turning over the government property in the district here to Major Waldron by that time.

Captain Ridley was very busy yesterday signing up pay vouchers for supplies furnished by local and out-of-town contractors and others for supplies used on the government projects throughout the district during the past few months. The government makes an expenditure of about $100,000 a month in the district for supplies, largely, of course, in connection with the Harbor of Refuge construction work at Cape Lookout. Quite a considerable sum, however, is spent locally in connection with supplies for the construction of the locks and dams on the upper Cape Fear.

Capt. J. R. D. Matheson, of the local district, who has charge of the construction of Lock and Dam No. 2, was in the city yesterday en route to Fort Caswell on a visit of inspection to improvements being made there, of which he also has local charge under the Wilmington office.

Yesterday's Raleigh News and Observer: "Mr. Woodus Kellum, a well known attorney of Wilmington and former member of the General Assembly from New Hanover county, is in the city."

PREACHES STRONG SERMON

Rev. J. P. Pate Pleases Hearers at Bladen Street Church Revival.

The evangelistic services at Bladen Street Methodist church, last night, were attended by one of the largest congregations that have so far attended. Taking for his text a clause in the 26th verse of the 5th chapter of St. Luke: "We have seen strange things today," the pastor, Rev. J. P. Pate, preached a strong sermon.

At the close of the sermon an invitation was extended to the congregation, and a number responded. The song services are one of the principal features of the meeting. They begin promptly at 7:45, and continue for a quarter of an hour, the main part of the service beginning at 8 o'clock. Members of all other churches are cordially invited to give their co-operation. The public in general is welcome.

Dazzling Today

More Fashions - More Beauty
More Variety.

An instantaneous success has been achieved with this exposition of the Fashion for Fall. With ears sensitively attuned for criticism, we listened attentively yesterday—and heard nothing but approval. We felt a keen regret that some of the best fashions were delayed and, therefore, not exhibited. But these have arrived, and were immediately given space in the displays. So for today there is a broader showing, meaning a broader education in the new for Autumn. Those who visited yesterday and those who did not are invited to come today.

HOLD SUGCESSFUL OPENING

Belk-Williams Company Have Their First Annual Fall "Spread"—Throngs of Visitors Throughout Day.

From early morn until twilight yesterday, the big department store of the Belk-Williams Company was the mecca for the feminine portion of Wilmington's inhabitants. The occasion was the first annual fall opening of the millinery department of this popular Wilmington store, and to judge from the number of fair customers that thronged its corridors all day yesterday the opening was a most successful one.

While one must be an expert to understand fully the different points of merit and attraction of the various articles that go to make up a woman's wardrobe, still from the viewpoint of the layman, there was a sufficient and assorted supply in the Belk-Williams store to please the vanity of the most fastidious.

Perhaps the leading features of the millinery department are the jockey-brimmed beretta and the military tricone of regimental blue, the latter being one of the several styles suggested to foreign milliners by the European war. Then, too, there is the poke bonnet with the collapsible crown, also the different styles of old standbys in all manner of shapes and sizes. The predominating colors are plum, bergundy and brown.

Feathers, wings, metal garnishings, beads and embroidery seem to be the most popular trimmings for the season. Veils and furs, too, will play an important part among the adornments of the new style bonnets. A new type of widow's bonnet is expected to prove quite popular.

In the suit and dress departments the standard shades and materials are supplemented by an elaborate supply of velours, velvets, broadcloths, poplins, and serges. Here also are found satins, taffetas and crepe de chines.

The millinery department of the store is handsomely decorated with ferns and flowers, while the constantly changing throngs of women, with their vari-colored raiment, added another touch of color and beauty to the scene.

Every visitor was presented with a carnation, and the pedestrians on the streets throughout the day showed many of these badges of the Belk-Williams Company.

The big opening event continues two days ,yesterday and today, and it is expected that many hundreds who did not visit the store yesterday will avail themselves of the opportunity offered today.

BOARD VOTES TO RECOMMEND INCREASE FOR DR. NESBITT

Board of Health Favors Increase to $3,000 For Health Officer.

At a called meeting of the Board of Health held at the Court House yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, which was attended by all members of the board, it was voted to recommend to City Council and the Board of County Commissioners that the salary of Dr. Chas. T. Nesbitt as health officer of New Hanover county be increased from $2,500 to $3,000.

Members of the board who advocated the increase in salary stated that Dr. Nesbitt has been approached by the health departments of at least two important Southern cities and that while they felt sure he would be willing to make a financial sacrifice to continue his work here, that in view of the greater burden of work which would fall on his shoulders through abolishing of the position of assistant health officer and putting in his place a county physician for part time service and also because he has been an exceptionally efficient and faithful public servant, the increase was richly deserved and even then the salary would be much less than Dr. Nesbitt could command elsewhere.

It was also pointed out that the increased would not raise the budget but $100, as a saving of $400 was effected through abolishing of the position of assistant health officer, and the appointment of Dr. Arnold Stovall as county physician to treat charity cases and to render such other medical service as may be required.

MR. KITCHIN CAN NOT COME

Majority Leader Finds It Impossible to Visit Wilmington During First of Next Month.

Hon. Claude Kitchin, majority leader of the House, will be unable to visit Wilmington during the early part of October, but thinks that he can arrange to be here later in the campaign, according to a letter received from him yesterday by Mr. Claude C. Cashwell, secretary of the New Hanover Democratic campaign committee. Mr. Cashwell wrote to Mr. Kitchin a few days ago, inviting him to address the voters of New Hanover some time during the first part of October.

While anxious to come to Wilmington in the interest or Democracy, Mr. Kitchin finds it impossible to arrange his itinerary so as to be here at this time, but feels confident that he can make the trip later. Mr. Kitchin's reputation as an orator is too well known to be commented on, and that he would create a profound impression on the voters of Wilmington and New Hanover county goes without saying.

Mr. Cashwell is also in receipt of a letter from Maj. Joseph W. Little, who is spending his vacation in Pittsfield, Mass. Since leaving Wilmington a few days ago, Mr. Little has visited Atlantic City, N. J., and several other cities of the North and East, and from observation and information that he has received, is of the opinion that Woodrow Wilson will certainly carry that section of the country.

Local Democratic leaders are daily growing more optimistic concerning the prospects of victory in the coming election. While several Republicans of national reputation are stumping the State in behalf of their party, there seems to be little danger that when the sentinel of Democracy makes his tour of inspection in November the Tar Heels will not as a whole be able to answer "1916, North Carolina, and all is well."

FIVE NEW LAWYERS ADDED TO CUMBERLAND COUNTY BAR

Mrs. Isabella Williams Passes Away Near Fayetteville.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Fayetteville, N. C., Sept. 19.—Five new lawyers were added to the Cumberland bar yesterday when C. W. Sandrock, John H. Cook, Frank H. Gibbs, Robert S. McNeill, and Oscar Leach took the solemn oaths that admit a practitioner to the bar, before Judge Francis D. Winston in the Superior court here. The young lawyers, who passed the Supreme Court in August, were introduced to the court by Col. W. C. Broadfoot, dean of the bar. Messrs. McNeill and Sandrock were sworn in in the morning and Messrs. Cook, Gibbs and Leach in the afternoon. Three oaths were administered by Clerk of the Court W. M. Walker—the oath of allegiance to the United States, to the State of North Carolina, and the oath that the candidate takes to perform his duty as a member of the bar. Judge Winston made a short talk to the new attorneys in which he reminded them that there was never a period in the history of North Carolina when a good lawyer had a greater opportunity than at the present time.

Mr. Sandrock, who is a well known Fayetteville business man, will be associated with E. G. Davis in the practice of the profession, forming the law firm of Davis and Sandrock. Mr. Cook will be associated with his father Judge R. L. Cook under the firm name of Cook and Cook. Mr. Leach, who is from Raeford, will enter the office of John G. Shaw. Mr. McNeill will practice in Fayetteville, while Mr. Gibbs is undecided whether he will locate here or elsewhere. Colonel Broadfoot stated that these young men were as well equipped as any he had the pleasure of presenting to a Cumberland court.

Death in Cumberland.

Mrs. Isabella Williams, widow of the late Robert Williams, died at the home of her step-son, John C. Williams, in this county, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Williams had lived in this city for a number of years with her nephew, John H. Culbreth, but was with her son for the summer when taken ill. She was a woman of splendid character and her funeral at McPherson church in Seventy-First township this afternoon was attended by many sorrowing friends. Before marriage she was Miss Isabella Currie, of Seventy-First. Besides two step-sons she leaves a nephew and a niece—Mr. Culbreth and Mrs. R. L. Holland, of this city.

SERGEANT WILSON WINS MEDAL IN COMPETITIVE DRILL

Quarterly Contest of W. L. I. Held at Front and Market Streets.

Sergeant McC. B. Wilson was awarded the medal for being the best drilled man, at the quarterly competitive drill of the Wilmington Light Infantry, held at Front and Market streets last night. Lieutenant Edward H. Holmes was in command, in the absence of Capt. Jas. B. Lynch, who was detained on account of the death of his grandmother.

This drill is rapidly becoming one of the most attractive features of the W. L. I.'s work. Great enthusiasm and a friendly spirit of rivalry is aroused by it. The custom of holding the drills quarterly, serves as an incentive to bring out the best that is in the men, realizing as they do that ,though they lose, they will have another opportunity to compete for the coveted prize within a few months.

The drill last night was judged by Lieuts. Edward H. Holmes and Owen C. Fillyaw. A number of interested spectators were in evidence along the sidewalks.

"THE DUKE OF BRUNSWICK" IS A MAXTON VISITOR

Goes to Robeson City in Interest of Democratic Party.

The following clipping from this week's issue of the Maxton Scottish Chief, will be of itnerest to the many Wilmington friends of Mr. George Bellamy, a Democratic leader in his county:

"Mr. George Bellamy, of Brunswick, was a Maxton visitor Tuesday. He is looking after the fences of Mr. Godwin, we are informed, which we presume includes the whole Democratic ticket in the district and State.

"Mr. Bellamy has always been prominent in the Democratic party, both in Brunswick county and the State. He is as well known as 'The Duke of Brunswick' as by his real name."

MANY TO ATTEND LUNCHEON

Membership Luncheon of Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Wilmington Today Will Be Big Event.

The membership luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce at the Wilmington hotel today at 1 o'clock, in the interest of the new plan of membership, will be attended by a large number of members of the organization and will in a measure express the co-operative spirit of the community.

A splendid programme has been arranged for the event and general interest is being manifested by members of the chamber. The present popular membership plan, which eliminates the graduated scale of membership and tends to create more general interest in the work of the organization, up to the present time has been worked out in a most successful manner by the membership committee.

The meeting at Hotel Wilmington today will probably be the first of a series of similar gatherings this fall and winter. The programme arranged for the meeting today is as follows:

"The New Plan of Membership," Colonel Walker Taylor.

"Traffic Department," J. G. McCormick, Esq.

"How the Community Should Support the Organization," Mr. T. E. Cooper.

"What the Chamber Should Mean to Wilmington," Judge George Rountree.

"Duties of a Representative," L. C. Grant, Esq.

"Wilmington's Future as a Winter and Summer Resort," Herbert McClammy, Esq.

Remarks by the president, Mr. Marcus W. Jacobi.

—Hearing a noise that sounded very much like somebody climbing in a window at her home, No. 1203 McRae alley, Mary Bennett, colored, last night about 10 o'clock called for the help of the police. When Officers Hansley and Haskett arrived on the scene ,they found a small negro boy in the house who implicated two others, one of these being a white boy and other colored. The three youngsters were taken into custody and will face trial today.

THEATRICAL

All aboard! L-Ko Special to the land of mirth! The Bijou presents the ripsnortingest L-Ko Komedy scream of the ages today. It's in two reels and the title is "The Right Car But the Wrong Berth." You can imagine just from that title that it's some comedy—and then some. It is one of the funniest things that ever the mind of man invented; funnier even than—but it's no use. The humor of an L-Ko cannot be described in words. It just ripples and runs and finally crashes to a whirlwind finish.

Dan Russell is the leader. Dan is a floorwalker and as a floor-walker he is a failure, but as a lady killer he is right there. A floor-walker should be the epitome of solemnity. Dan is far from being solemn. He is so funny in the part that he made the camera man laugh and this is a feat remarkable in the realm of the studio. Dan is railroaded from the suit shop to eternity in the two-reels of this picture. The drawbridge draws and Dan ascends like a Fourth of July balloon. All from entering a lady's berth—by mistake. And he was trying to escape from the lady's husband, too!

There's still another great two-reeler at the Bijou today, "The Call of the Past," a two-reel Imp Underworld drama, which is without the usual conventional ending and in which somebody finally pays. It is a surprise from start to finish and stars that bewitching little screen beauty Agnes Vernon with a big cast of supporters.

Better Show at Victoria.

Yes, it's absolutely a much better show at the Victoria today than the first two days of the week. This is guaranteed. It's so far ahead of the first show that there's no comparison. Today and tomorrow The Little Bluebird Company will present "Blitz and Muldoon on the Midway," featuring those two inimitable comedy stars, Jack Fuquay and Harold Gilles in a roaring Irish and Dutch comedy scream. Now you're about to see the role that Jack Fuquay shines in—an Irish comedian. He's simply great and we know you'll agree with us after you see today's show. It is simply a tipsnorter.

And did you ever see a niftier little chorus, prettier wardrobe or more classy dancing than those Bluebird girls present? Well, today they're even better and that pretty bit of femininity, Dolly Parker, puts over another big one with "Knock the 'L' Out of Kelly," assisted by Jack Fuquay and chorus. You may expect a treat in this number. Other big hits are presented by Beulah Fuquay and chorus—"Nashville;" Douglass Fleming and chorus—"The Old Plantation Home," and an exceptionally unique trio specialty by Fuquay, Gilles and Fleming. It's a bang up, good, all around show today.

At the Royal Today.

The last opportunity Wilmingtonians will have of seeing the first Made in Wilmington Picture, at the Royal Theatre will have to come today, for after today it will never be shown on a screen again. It will leave Wilmington tonight and will be demolished upon its return to the studio of The Scenic Film Company. Today is absolutely the last chance you have of witnessing this first picture ever made in Wilmington with an entire local cast.

The great feature for today is another one of those big Bra ly-World features, "The Railrider," in five reels, starring House Peters in the leading role, with Zeena Keefe, Harry West and other big World Film stars. It is a story o railroad life, of an engineer who is rewarded for going out of the path of duty to perform a heroic and generous deed. It is a picture that will appeal to everyone, from the kiddies to the grownups and is a picture that is interesting all the way through, intensely thrilling at times, and with a beautiful romance threading its way throughout the entire five reels.

Rare Treat at Grand.

It is indeed a rare treat which the Grand has prepared for its patrons today. That shining luminary of screenland, Jackie Saunders, one of the most bewitching and beautiful stars on the shadow stage, who is co-starring with Roland Bottomly in "The Grip of Evil" and who was the bright star of "The Shrine of Happiness" comes to the Grand today is a great three-reel Knickerbocker Star feature, "The Heart Breakers," one of the most beautiful stories ever told on the screen.

"The Heart Breakers" is well-sustained throughout, has some great touches of comedy that make it extremely enjoyable and the story is bright, human and interesting from beginning to end. The scenes are varied, and many of them were taken on the seashore, lending a delightful air to the feature. Miss Saunders is vivacious and attractive in the character of an heiress who passes herself off as her maid, in order to be loved for herself alone. The supporting cast, formed of great Horkheimer stars, is adequate and fufill all expectations.

There will be other big features in today's bill at the Grand, including a big Vitagraph comedy, and a great Victor comedy, "Arthur's Desperate Resolve," starring Billy Garwood in the leading role.

DAILY SCHOOL INSPECTION

Rocky Mount Authorities Accept the Philadelphia Plan.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., Sept. 19.—That Rocky Mount's city schools will be brought to the point of greatest possible efficiency from the standpoint of health is expected to result from the inauguration of what is known as the Philadelphia system of daily inspection of all public schools. The system gains its name from the fact that it was first successfully practiced in Philadelphia and is still being used there, and in so far as is known Rocky Mount is one of the first in the State to adopt the improved system in the schools. The application of the plan here has just been worked out by Superintendent of City Schools R. M. Wilson and the city physician, Dr. J. C. Braswell, Jr.

The plan reduces to a minimum the chances for an epidemic of any contagious disease and at the same time it affords an excellent opportunity for the daily examination and correction of any disease or condition that might prevent the best work among the pupils.

SOUTHPORT SCHOOL OPENS WITH BRIGHTEST PROSPECTS

Mothers' Meeting on First Day a New Feature of Opening.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Southport, N. C., Sept. 19.—The opening of the school here on Monday was most encouraging. The attendance for the first day was 227, this for the entire enrollment, while in the high school department there were 43, as against 33 last year. Included in the first day were several from the county, and there are more to arrive. The prospect is for a much better attendance this year, in all departments, than in previous years.

A feature introduced by Principal H. E. Ranson, on the afternoon of the opening school day, was called Mothers' meeting, this being a gathering at the school building of all mothers who had children attending, and to these was presented thoughts of what their co-operation with the teachers meant, in advancing the welfare ,educationally, of the children, through acquaintance with the teachers, and a better parental understanding of school methods. There were 60 mothers present.

CAPT. JOHN R. FERRALL DEAD

Prominent Raleigh Merchant Dies Almost Suddenly.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 19.—Captain John R. Ferrall, one of Raleigh's oldest active business men, died suddenly this afternoon at the home of his son-in-law, Dr. R. G. Sherrill, on Blount street. He was principal owner of one of the largest grocery stores in the city and left the store about 2 o'clock. He was complaining of feeling badly and died about 4 o'clock.

He was 76 years old and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Sherrill and Mrs. G. F. Cannon, of Brunswick, Md., also a brother, J. F. Ferrall, of the Dobbin-Ferrall Company. As a boy soldier he was captain of a home guard company toward the close of the Civil war and was public spirited and popular.

His wife, who was Miss Murray, died a number of years ago.

WOULD OMIT PRAYERS FOR JEWS, TURKS AND OTHERS

Proposal for Changes in Episcopal Prayer Book to be Submitted.

New York, Sept. 19.—A proposal to omit from the prayer book of the Protestant Episcopal church prayers for Jews, Turks, infidels and heretics will be submitted to the Episcopal triennial general convention to be held in St. Louis in October. The proposed changes are approved by the special commission on the revision of the prayer book.

The proposal to eliminate the Jews from Episcopal prayers is based on the ground that it is an insult to class them with infidels and heretics. The purpose in striking out the Turks from the prayers is to avoid confusing them with Mohammedans.

CONFERRING ON WAGE INCREASE

Labor Representative Sees Receivers of Raleigh Munitions Plant.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 19.—C. E. Davison, representative of the International Association of Machinists, with a local committee of munition workers, was closeted some time today with receivers for the Raleigh Iron Works, arguing the reasonableness of insistence the workers are making that they be allowed an increase in wage in spite of the receivership of the company, which holds extensive government and other munitions contracts.

The effort is a request rather than demand, because the receivers represent the bankruptcy court. Workers get 42 cents per hour now and want 55, which is paid in Richmond and Washington, according to their contentions. No agreement was reached.

ARRANGE TO BUILD PAPER FACTORY AT NEW IBERIA, LA.

Product to be Manufactured From Baggasse, or Refuse Cane Stalks.

New Iberia, La., Sept. 19.—The secretary of the local chamber of commerce announced today that arrangements had been completed for early construction of a factory here for the manufacture of paper from baggasse. Eastern capitalists are interested in the venture, it was stated. Baggasse is refuse sugar cane stalks from which the juice has been ground, and until recently has been burned or destroyed as useless at the mills. New Iberia is in the Louisiana cane growing section.

CALOMEL IS MERCURY! IT SICKENS! ACTS ON LIVER LIKE DYNAMITE

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Starts Your Liver Better Than Calomel and Doesn't Salivate or Make You Sick.

Listen to me! Take no more sickening, salivating calomel when bilious or constipated. Don't lose a day's work!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone on my guarantee.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful tonight and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

A Sketch of the Great Iron Works of France, Where Men, Women and Children Toil Day and Night To Furnish France With War Munitions.

Copyright, 1916, by The International Syndicate.

THE thriving little city of Le Creusot in France owes its existence to the Schneider Iron Works, the most important of its kind in France. There twenty thousand men, women and children labor day and night to supply the French army with fighting material of all sorts. The town is two hundred and fifty miles from Paris in the Department of the Saone and Loire, on the watershed between these rivers, with which latter it is indirectly connected by a central canal and a private railway.

In 1790 it was a group of huts remote from any road, and whose inhabitants lived upon the sale of coal which cropped out on the barren surface of the land. About this time a sugar crystallizer was founded there under the patronage of Marie Antoinette which was in existence until 1832. In 1782 Perrier Bellanger & Company established a foundry and Le Creusot began to grow. This foundry passed to a man named Chargot in 1818, and in 1826 it fell into the hands of the English firm of Manly-Wilson. They failed in 1824, and the Le Creusot works were transferred to the Schneider Brothers & Company, and since that time the operations have progressed without cessation.

Rich Coal And Ore District.

The town lies in the center of the richest coal and iron mining districts of France, and the raw material for the workings of the foundry are near at hand. The coal beds were discovered in the thirteenth century, but it was not until several centuries later that they were put to use, and even then the work done at the foundry amounted to little. When Adolph and Eugene Schneider came into possession they opened up a workshop on a comparatively small scale, employing about two thousand persons. The inventive genius of these men was little short of marvelous and their plant soon became famous all over Europe. Since the present war began the works have been greatly enlarged and now cover an area of more than nine thousand acres, including the artillery firing grounds. There are nearly two hundred miles of railroad tracks through the grounds which establish connection with the main lines or with the coal and iron mines owned by the Company. The total output at present of iron and manufactured pieces is about two hundred and fifty thousand tons per month.

Better Equipped Than Essen.

The works are even better equipped than those at Essen, and they can turn out the most varied products from small bar and light sheet iron to the heaviest shafting for vessels, armorplate, heavy ordnance, and even an entire battleship for the Company has its own docks at Bordeaux. They also own large artillery works at Havre where cannon and torpedoes are built, and a special station near Toulon on the Mediterranean. Submarines and various structural iron work are built at Chalons in another factory owned by the Schneiders, although the biggest part of the equipment for the French army during the present war is being constructed at Le Creusot.

The blast furnaces, of which there are six or seven produce nearly one hundred and fifty tons of pig iron every twenty-four hours. The gases coming from the furnaces are usefully employed to blow engines of seven hundred horsepower, also to run an extensive electric plant. This latter has twelve hundred horsepower in engines and is used for operating motors throughout the works. A separate plant gives the requisite power for lighting, as the plant now runs day and night on account of the large government orders.

Revolutionized Warship Armament.

The modern armor piercing shell is the result of a continual struggle between armor and projectile—a struggle in which now one, now the other, has gained superiority. It was the head of the Creusot works who revolutionized warship armament in 1876. Up to that time the most progressive nations used wrought iron for protective armor on their ships. Schneider proved the superiority of steel in resisting the penetration of projectiles and at the same time set about to invent a projectile that would tear through the steel. The fight between the two began, and war has been waged at Le Creusot—there being great rivalry between the men in the armor department and those of the projectile factory.

In the armorplate works the rolls with their tables are remarkable for their size and produce armorplate of thirteen feet by sixty feet, with a thickness ranging up to ten inches—plate of this kind being rolled from large steel ingots weighing fifty or sixty tons; while in the forging shops the work of making a projectile which will tear through this is being carried out. For instance, the forging of a tube for a ten-inch cannon from a round ingot is accomplished with a three thousand ton hydraulic press. The ingot in the first place came from the great ten thousand ton hydraulic forging press where it had been pressed while in a liquid state. The noise made by the machinery in this section is almost deafening while the heat in the blast furnace section is practically unbearable to the layman. At night the scene is indescribable as red, molten metal pours out like a falls of fire.

Making Shrapnel Shells.

The heaviest engineering operations in shell manufacture are those involved in the formation of the body or casing. Shrapnel shells as made at the Creusot factory are of special interest in that they possess a number of parts which are not required in armor-piercing and high explosive shells, but apart from these, and with due allowance for differences arising from size and function the manufacture of the latter is similar. The eighteen pounder shrapnel shell is made from a solid bar of steel (manufactured in another department of the works), which is cut to a length about equal to that of the finished body, and bored out internally by a drill; but forgings are generally regarded as preferable because, among other reasons, a smaller weight of metal is required. In the latter case the shell begins as a billet or block of steel. The first operation is to pierce this block and form it into a deep cup. For this purpose after being heated in a furnace to about 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit it is quickly put into a die and a shaped punch is forced into it by a hydraulic or power press. The result is that the metal is squeezed out around the punch and when the block is removed from the die it possesses a round hole in its center extending nearly to its base and is lengthened to nearly eight inches. The next process is to draw it out to still greater length; this again is effected in a press by means of shaped punches and dies working on the heated metal, and it emerges about ten or eleven inches long in a shape almost like its final form. It then passes to the machinery operations and is ready for filling. Much of the finishing is now done by women who have become experts in this line.

Varied Products.

The great guns are also forged at the Creusot works, and gigantic cranes and huge hydraulic presses are used in their making. All sorts of structural iron work for bridges are turned out, much of this replacing the bridges which were blown up by the Germans. Locomotives are also one of the products, and recently a number were manufactured for use in the French army so armored that they can be employed for drawing the armored trains. For years the Creusot plant has been turning out locomotives for the French Government—the very first one to run in France being a product of this factory.

The Town.

Out in the city the workmen live in a community fashion much after the style of Essen—those receiving certain salaries reside on certain streets. Nobody lives above his income. The city is well paved and gas lit; has a public market, library, schools, churches, hospital and dispensary. Education is not obligatory, but as no child can be employed at the works unless he can read and write the parents see to it that their children go to school. As in every business the best educated obtain the high grade positions, and many of the children knowing this are hard students. Saving is encouraged and there is a bank for this purpose.

The town is admirably situated in respect to the French frontier, for while it is not so far distant from the firing line as to occasion delay in the transportation of munitions it is sufficiently removed to be beyond the danger zone, as an invading army would be compelled to pass several forts before reaching it. Creusot has for many years played an important part in furnishing France with war munitions.

Proper Food a Matter of Utmost Importance - Suggestions From Uncle Sam - What to Give the Infant, the "Toddler" and the School Child.

Copyright, 1916, by The International Syndicate.

IN all innocence, of course, the average child lives to eat. But Science steps in and says he should eat to live. And no less a personage than Uncle Sam now comes to the front with a carefully planned and tested list of foods suitable to the baby, the "toddler" and the school child.

During the first year of the baby's life he should have the food provided by Nature—there is none other equal to it. But when this is impossible, artificial foods should be most painstakingly prepared. It has been estimated that thirty out of every one hundred bottle-fed babies die in their first year; while not more than seven out of the same number of breast-fed babies fail to survive their first year of life.

Home Pasteurizing.

Cows milk is best for the bottle baby, says Uncle Sam; but the milk should be beyond question. If possible, certified milk should be obtained no matter what the cost. But if this cannot be secured, the mother should at least know that it is clean, pure and from a tuberculin tested herd. Even then, though, the milk must be pasteurized before feeding—that is, it must be heated to 150 degrees Fahrenheit for a half-hour and then rapidly cooled.

Further, according to the U. S. Public Health Service, this pasteurizing should be done in the feeding bottles, they having been sterilized before by boiling for fifteen minutes. A clean cork or absorbent cotton is used as a stopper for the bottle. There are a number of pasteurizing outfits on the market; or one may be made at home, as follows:

Place the bottle, or bottles, of milk to be sterilized in a wire basket which, in turn, is placed in a receptacle filled with cold water to a point a little higher than the level of the milk. Let the water come to a boil and continue to boil for about five minutes. Then allow cold water to run into the receptacle until the milk is cooled to the temperature of the cold water. It is imperative, then, that the milk be kept cold until used; and a refrigerator clean and well stocked with ice, is advisable.

Milk For The Baby.

Uncle Sam, through his Children's Bureau, Public Health Service and Department of Agriculture, has prepared many bulletins on the subject of baby welfare; they are most thorough and specific, and can be obtained by any mother who requests them.

Three ounces of milk, diluted with seven ounces of water and one tablespoonful of lime water and two level teaspoonsful of sugar should be given daily in seven feedings, beginning on the third day.

At one week of age, the average youngster needs five ounces of milk each day, diluted with ten ounces of water, one ounce of lime water and one and one-half level tablespoonsful of sugar, in seven feedings. From then on, about every four days, increase the quantity of milk by one-half ounce; and the quantity of water by one-half ounce every eight days.

When three months of age, the average baby should consume each day, in six feedings, sixteen ounces of milk mixed with the same quantity of water, three tablespoonsful of sugar and two ounces of lime water. From then on every six days, increase the milk by one-half ounce, and reduce the water every two weeks by one-half ounce.

At Half A Year Old.

At six months, the average baby should receive daily in five feedings, twenty-four ounces of milk, twelve ounces of water, three level tablespoonsful of sugar, and two ounces of lime water. Then increase the milk only if the youngster is hungry and digesting his food well.

Then, too, from about the third month on it is sometimes advisable to substitute a weak barley water for the plain water in the following proportions: One-half level tablespoonful of barley flour to sixteen ounces of water cooked for twenty minutes.

At six months, one and one-half tablespoonsful of barley flour, cooked in twelve ounces of water. At nine months, three level tablespoonsful of barley flour cooked in eight ounces of water.

For The Older Baby.

Consider now the older baby, able to run about. A number of suggestions herewith are of real value. The child should have access to an abundance of cool, but not iced, water. And each day, unless his bowels are loose, he should be given from one to three tablespoonsful of strained fruit juice.

At nine months of age, beef tea, squeezed beef juice or chicken or mutton broth once a day will prove a pleasing and safe addition to his menu; and at ten months old, he may be given a small piece of toast or a crust of bread with part of a soft-boiled egg. But he should not be given any other solid food during his first year.

When the youngster is one year of age, the following hints are worthy of consideration: He should be weaned from his bottle, being taught to drink milk out of a cup four times each day; moreover, his milk may be given undiluted. Cereals, thoroughly cooked and for the first few months also strained, may be given twice each day.

When he has passed his fifteenth month, let him have each day a teaspoonful, later a tablespoonful, of rare scraped beef, chicken or mutton. And three months later one-half of a well-cooked baked potato daily will work no injury; also, juice of fresh fruits and cooked fruits such as apple sauce or a baked apple.

Fresh green vegetables, carefully prepared and mashed, are safe when the child is two years of age; and he should be fed each day at 6 A. M., 10 A. M., 2 P. M. and 6 P. M.

Balanced Rations.

The Department of Agriculture offers an extensive list of instructions and suggestions as to feeding the child of from three to six years of age, of which the following extracts are well worth consideration. First of all, it is not merely a problem of selecting food that will suit his bodily requirements, but also one of pleasing his eye and taste and of offering a variety of good things to eat.

Further, he should have one food each day from each of the following groups, as arranged by the Department: (a) milk and dishes prepared of meat, poultry, eggs, fish; (b) bread and cereal foods; (c) butter and wholesome fats; (d) vegetables and fruits; and (e) sweets. This, of course, as a foundation for his day's ration, a balanced one.

For example, take sample menus for a single day. For breakfast give him a baked apple, cereal mush, milk, toast and butter; for dinner, which is best in the middle of the day, a broiled lamb chop, spinach, baked potato, rice with milk and sugar and bread and butter; and for supper, stewed prunes, milk, cookies and bread and butter.

Emphasis is placed upon the fact that the above menus for a day are merely samples to show the proper selection and combinations of food and it is not meant that the child should be fed these same things every day.

Lunch For School Child.

Going ahead a few years, one comes to the rather perplexing problem of the proper lunch for the school child; and experts in the division of home economics, Department of Agriculture, offer a number of interesting suggestions. From them, mention may be made of nine practical school lunches all of which are properly balanced rations. They are:

(a) Sandwiches filled with sliced meat, baked apples, cookies.

(b) Slices of meat loaf, or bean loaf, bread and butter sandwiches stewed fruit, frosted cakes.

(c) Crisp rolls, hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or fish seasoned and moistened or mixed with salad dressing, an orange, apple, mixture of sliced fruits or berries, cake.

(d) Lettuce or celery sandwiches, jelly sandwiches, cup custard.

(e) Cottage cheese and chopped green pepper sandwiches, or a portion of cream cheese with bread and butter sandwiches, peanut sandwiches, fruit, cake.

(f) Hard boiled eggs, baking powder biscuits, celery or radishes, brown sugar or maple sugar sandwiches.

(g) Bottle of milk, corn bread and butter, dates, apple.

(h) Raisin or nut bread with butter, cheese, orange, maple sugar.

(i) Baked beans and lettuce sandwiches, apple sauce, sweet chocolate.

In many schools nowadays, the hot lunch is a feature; or the child has sufficient time during recess to return home for lunch. In either case the Department of Agriculture offers a number of suggestions. Cocoa and soups of all kinds, but with the preference for milk and cream soups, should play an important part in such luncheon. Here are sample ones:

(a) Vegetable milk soup, crackers, rolls, fruit and plain cake.

(b) Meat and vegetable stew, bread and butter, sweet chocolate.

(c) Boiled custard, lettuce sandwiches, fruit and cookies.

(d) Dried cod fish chowder, crackers, fruit and maple sugar sandwiches.

(e) Bean soup, crackers, baked apple and sponge cake.

Authorities agree that food for children is a matter which demands the utmost care; and that the future powers of digestion of the child depend in large measure upon the start. A digestion ruined or impaired by improper feeding at a tender age is apt to be an ailing one all through life.

COTTON MOUNTS HIGHER

Spot Goes to 16.13 While January is About 36 Per Bale Above High Level of Last Week.

New York, Sept. 19.—The cotton market showed increasing strength and activity today with January selling up to 16.28, or 32 points above last night's closing figures and approximately $6 a bale above the low level of a week ago yesterday. Closing prices were very steady at a net advance of 27 to 31 points.

The market opened steady at a net advance of 2 to 7 points on realising, prices easing back to about yesterday's final figures right after the call, but there was only a moderate volume of selling from Southern sources. The absence of more aggressive hedge selling encouraged a renewal of general buying and the demand seemed to broaden as prices worked above the 16 cent level without bringing out increased Southern offerings. After showing a net advance of about 25 to 30 points, realizing increased and there were reactions of 7 or 8 points during the early afternoon, but the volume of business showed a tendency to diminish on the setbacks and the highest prices of the day were made in the late trading when October sold at 16.05; December at 16.19 and March at 16.44, or 30 to 34 points net higher. The close was within a point or two of the best on most positions. Weather conditions were considered generally favorable for picking and maturing cotton and led to predictions of heavy ginning returns, but evidently failed to disturb confidence in the bullish view of the final crop.

Buying Wave in Market Sends Prices Up $1.50 Per Bale.

New Orleans, Sept. 19.—The increased demand for spots in the interior of the belt and improved reports from the big drygoods markets, especially Manchester, created a buying wave in cotton today on which prices rose $1.50 a bale, January crossing the 16 cent mark. The greatest strength was shown late in the session following the posting of Southern spot market reports which showed wide advances and the best general demand thus far this season. The close was within a point of the top, a net rise of 30 to 31 points and the tone on the close was officially called firm.

Around the opening call the market was put 5 to 7 points up by moderate buying. This slight rise, however, called forth heavy offerings. Early in the session the spot accounts from the interior commenced to tell and by noon the market had firmed up for an advance of 28 to 29 points. For a while hesitation was shown and prices fell off a few points under profit taking but toward the close the strongest demand of the session was met and the market rose to a level 33 to 34 points over the lowest of the day and 31 to 32 points over yesterday's close. Spot quotations were advanced 25 points locally.

Closing bid: October 15.64; December 15.84; January 16.03; March 16.24; May 16.45.

Spot cotton steady 25 points up. Sales on the spot 2,320 bales; to arrive 490; middling 15.38.

STOCKS CONTINUE ACTIVE

United States Steel Leads With Fresh Advance—Rails Regain Part of Losses—Marines Lose.

New York, Sept. 19.—Today's stock market maintained its recent reputation for excessive activity, sales again exceeding a million shares for the 11th consecutive session.

United States Steel led on a fresh advance to the new record of 109, placing it within 12 points of the preferred stock which is on a fixed seven per cent basis. The preferred on its rise to 121, was at its best quotation since 1911.

Movements elsewhere were not altogether in keeping with the gains made by Steel, although advances for exceeded declines. Rails regained one to two points of yesterday's reversal, equipments were variably better with marked activity in General Electric and Westinghouse, Coppers and Zincs and Motors were active.

Sugars and oils were in greater speculative favor, with Cuban-American sugar at the new record of 260 while Texas Company, Associated Oil and California Petroleums rose two to three points.

Shipping shares were consistently backward, developing heaviness in the final hour, when the entire list, save for a few minor specialties, surrendered much of its advance on pressure. Total sales of stocks amounted to 1,070,600 shares.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value $4,875,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call but the coupon 3s declined 1-2 per cent on sales.

you could raise clover or timothy he would probably have been adjudged insane, or at least it would have been thought he ought to have been so adjudged. We were raising wheat and we started in in that country with a crop of from 20 to 25 bushels of wheat to the acre of virgin soil. I stayed there until the virgin soil, for some reason that no chemist has been able to explain, turned over for the first time would only raise from 17 to 18 bushels per acre. In 1868 Horace Greely came to the little town I lived in—I remember him well although I was only a small boy, his long grey coat and old grey hat and his alfalfa beard, which had been frost-bitten before I saw him,—and he made a speech to the farmers up there and made this declaration, he said, 'Real rural prosperity of the Northwest will begin when the last pine tree has been cut and the last bushel of wheat has been raised.' Now, of course, he did not mean that literally, what he meant was this, that while our farmers were spending their winters in the woods with their teams, getting from $75 to $125 and some times $150 a month, and raising wheat and getting from one fifty to two dollars and fifty cents per bushel,—and I sold wheat one spring for three dollars a bushel,—what he meant was this, that the farmers instead of being in the woods in the winter ought to be on their farms taking care of stock. What he meant about wheat was that wheat was exhausting our soil and we were getting nothing in return. And they laughed at Greely then, but they learned later that Greely was right, and today going into that fertile valley I think you can count on your two hands the men who saved their farms working for those high wages in the woods and selling their wheat for the high prices of from one-fifty to two-fifty per bushel.

"A couple of years ago it was my fortune to pass through that same valley, and as I went by the houses of the men I had known I would ask,—'Well, what has become of Jones?' and the reply would be,—'Well, Jones did not succeed very well and he sold out,'—and here where Jones had been raising wheat and lost his farm today there is a silo and the fields dotted with dairy cattle, and today there is no richer section of this country than that section where Greely predicted that the real prosperity would begin when the last bushel of wheat had been raised and the last pine tree had been cut. Not only was the one-crop system disastrous to the soil but it is disastrous in another way, the man who depends upon one crop becomes more or less inefficient, he sees no particular line of development along with that crop as he does in diversified farming. He may have learned that it is better to manure his land than not, but that is about the extent of the development in wheat raising; there was no field for study; there was no incentive to study farm possibilities. Not only that, but it renders a man extravagant. A man who gets his income once a year in the form of a crop is bound to be more extravagant than the man who from day to day has something to sell or dispose of and takes the cash and goes and buys what he needs. We all count cash far more carefully than we count credit when we are making a purchase, and so the wheat farm and the wheat farmer largely disappeared."

"When we first began to talk of this transition farmers said,—'It was all well enough to talk about it but it couldn't be done,' but my farmer friends, those of you who may be here today, it can be done because it has been done in those other states. The great wheat raising state of North Dakota two years ago led the states of the American nation in the game of milch cows, while some of the oldest states lost because they adopted the policy of selling calves instead of raising the calves in order that the calves might in turn become mothers of more calves.

"Now, the next thing is what is the most advantageous thing to turn to in this transition. There is no question but what wherever the conditions will permit it the basis of agricultural wealth is the cow. When Charles the Fifth was king of Spain and emperor of what they called the Holy Roman Empire, which constituted, as you remember, a number of the kingdoms of the earth, his revenue amounted to five million dollars a year; not much these days when a Morgan can exploit a couple of defunct corporations and capitalize them and make a few millions by the operation; but it was a vast sum 400 years ago, and when Charles' revenue was five million dollars a year he was robbing two continents of their gold and silver, but of all that five million two million came from the little province of Holland. Spain has practically disappeared, existing today only by the sufferance of other nations; that great emperor has disappeared but Holland has her cows and her agricultural development and she still thrives and is one of the most prosperous countries upon the face of the earth.

"It requires time and capital to make the change to the cow and so far as beef product, the raising of horned cattle, it requires a vast amount of capital to establish a home market. Courageous indeed would be the man who would establish a beef packing industry in opposition to that great array of beef packing interests which we call, justly or unjustly as the case may be, the beef packing trust. But while it takes vast capital and a long time to transfer to the cow, and still vaster capital to give you anything like a home market for the beef product of cattle raising, with the hog the condition is entirely different, as it takes less capital and less time. I don't know whether you breed your hogs twice a year or not but on my farm we have two litters a year ,and I want to tell you it is simply surprising how they increase on you and get so you can not go down into the woods without running on to them. The hog can be put into the finished product with far less capital than the beef animal and can be held by the men who put him into the finished product as against a temporary business of marketing the product of beef animals. In order to dispose of the product of the beef animal to any advantage you have got to have not only your facilities for transforming the animal into beef but you have got to have your market because the product of the beef animal slaughtered cannot be held any great length of time; but the product of a hog slaughtered and cured you can put it on the market today or a week or a year from now. In fact here in the South you have something which as yet is unknown in our county and that is your long time cured meats, and I want to confess to you that the man who gets an appetite for that ham has got to acquire it, it does not come natural to those of us who come to Washington from the Northwest, but when he acquires that appetite he is very well satisfied and counts it as a permanent acquisition. Those hams when two years old can not be beaten anywhere and a product that will permit the transformation from the animal on the hoof to the finished product, that can be kept as the ham of the hog can be kept, will enable a small institution to do business even in the face of the great pork packing industries of this country.

"Now, we have some of those small institutions in our state, and we have one very large one, which shows the probability of success in this pork packing industry that you are contemplating here today. We had in Southern Minnesota a town, at that time about 3,000 people, with rather an extraordinary meat market, and there was a gentleman there who was thoroughly familiar with the meat business and kept one of the best meat markets in the city and he began in a small way slaughtering until today it has grown into the great institution of the George A. Hummell Packing Company, of Austin, Minn., showing that in spite of the existence of this great beef packing industry and in spite of a corresponding large pork packing industry in the hands of the men who control the beef packig industry, nevertheless, it is possible for a small plant to prosper.

"Now, I do not stand here and advocate the success of a beef packing industry down here until you have capital beyond a dream of your proposed capital for this pork packing industry, but when we see things grow up and since this great establishment of Mr Hummell has grown up there, others have begun in that state and every one of them, so far as I have been able to learn, have been prosperous and successful. You need not fear that great octupus known as the Packing House Trust if you are going into the pork business. You can not upon any large scale put the beef upon the table of the consumer, he can not buy it in large quantities, he must buy it as he needs it, but pork will always find a direct market, direct from the packer to the consumer, and so again I say I have no hesitation in standing here in this presence and saying that you need have no fear of competition when it comes to the establishment of a pork packing industry.

"I have known lawyers that hoist their feet on the office table and tell you how to run a farm to perfection. This assistance that we have been giving the farmer heretofore, as Mr. Greer said, was more advice than substantial assistance. Now advice is all right, but the farmer has got to have something beyond mere advice. In the first place the farmer from his being separated in a measure from his fellow men can not and does not as easily and naturally come to the subject of association as the people in the town and cities and yet tha is one of the great lessons that the farmer had got to learn in this country. The value of association is that by that association we can do certain things, have better roads, better educational facilities and better fire protection than we could get as individuals. Free government is an object lesson in association to every one who lives under it, and throughout the business of this country, more and more, association is coming to be the rule. The farmer has been slow to embrace this principle of association and it is one of the steps he has got to take in this matter of transition from one system to a new system. The farmers in some sections are already doing their own killing and building up a local trade but after all in order to make that general and successful it has got to be through the medium of association and there has got to come between the city life and farm life a closer co-ordination. This riding out and telling the farmer on the part of the banker how he ought to hoe his corn and how he ought to do this and that is all very well but after all it is not very substantial aid to te farmer.

"In many sections of this country that process has already begun, not as it is proposed here exactly but in many sections of this country the business men of the city have come to understand that his property is interwoven with the prosperity of the farmer and the farmer has come to understand that his prosperity is interwoven with the prosperity of the man in the city. In some sections for instance the banks will loan a man of established reputation as a successful man the money for a year, without interest, to build a silo, and in some sections they are advancing money to put in newer and better stock, and in this way this proposition of co-operation is going on, and when you place co-operation upon the basis of intelligent selfishness you place it upon a basis where it can live. Association based upon mere sentiment is like a thread or rope of sand but when you combine and put in association and co-ordination intelligent selfishness, not blind inordinate greed that kills the goose that lays the golden egg, but that intelligent selfishness that recognizes that both sides must prosper you then put it upon a basis where it becomes permanent and lasting. Getting away from the old sentimental relations, we are coming today more and more to recognize that both sides must have prosperity and both sides must prosper, simply intelligent selfishness."

THURMAN ANXIOUS TO LEAVE TRENCHES TO PLAY FOOTBALL

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 19.—Allan Thurman, star punter of the Virginia football team last season, would trade his place in the battle scarred trenches of France for his old position on the 'varsity eleven, according to Tackle Ward, of Virginia, who announced today he had received a letter from Thurman urging his former teammates to request his father to cable for his release from the French army. Thurman, who is under age, asks for speedy action so that he may play against Yale October 7. It was his great punting which paved the way for Virginia's 10 to 0 victory over Eli a year ago.

Berlin, via London, September 20.—A dispatch from Hirschberg, Silesia, says that according to dispatches received there, 250 bodies had been recovered up to noon Tuesday. These included many children. The disaster came so suddenly that it was impossible to give timely warning to all localities. Messages speak of waves 20 feet high destroying everythin in their path over a stretch of 12 or more miles.
